Mercury Will Approach Zero

Five Above Coldest
In City for 24-Hour
Period; 14 at Noon

The mercury will approach or reach the zero mark tonight in Appleton and vicinity, the weatherman warned today.

The cold wave that followed the heavy fall of snow jammed the mercury down to a low of five above in Appleton at 9 o'clock last night, according to the Wisconsin power company.

It was still definitely brisk in the city today, the thermometer atop the Post-Crescent building reading 14 above at noon. Yesterday's high was 20 above at 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

Like today, tomorrow will be fair, the Milwaukee bureau predicted today. The bright sun was doing little damage to the snow today, however, so low was the temperature. Snow crunched underfoot and car owners checked their machines again to be certain of enough anti-freeze solution. About an inch of snow fell in the city during the night.

The cold wave, which was described as moving southward from the northern plains states, already has lowered the mercury to below zero readings in North Dakota and Minnesota. Last night's lowest temperature was 18 below zero in Devil's Lake, N. D.

The forecasters said temperatures in the Chicago area would drop to about 5 above zero tonight and to zero to five above in southern Wisconsin. Only light snowfalls would accompany the severe weather, they added.

Committees Favor Loan to Chinese

Washington—(AP)—Members of the senate banking and house coinage committees gave an unanimous vote of approval today to a transaction by which the United States will advance the Chinese Chungking government $100,000,000.

Of the total credit, $50,000,000 would come from the treasury's stabilization fund and a like amount from the Export-Import bank.

After hearing Secretary Hull outline a general policy of aid to China, Kai-Shek's government and Secretary Morgenthau explain details of the proposed loan to the group, including 12 senators and 6 house members, gave Hull and Morgenthau a vote of confidence.

Senator Wagner (D-N.Y.) explained that the congressional group was concerned only with proposed operation of the $200,000,000 stabilization fund to support the Chinese currency.

Sen. Vandenberg Blocks Confirmation of Madden

Washington—(AP)—Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) blocked today senate confirmation of J. Warren Madden to be a judge of the court of claims, asserting that "some of us" were not convinced of the "judicial eligibility" of the nominee, former labor board chairman.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the majority leader, agreed not to press for immediate action, and said that as a result the nomination probably would have to go over until the next session of congress.

Britain and Spain in Financial Agreement

Madrid—(AP)—Britain and Spain signed a financial agreement today designed to free Spanish funds blocked in London and give Spain funds to increase purchases from the British.

The pact was signed in a non-ceremonial by Spanish Foreign Minister Ramon Serrano Suner and Sir Samuel Hoare, the British ambassador.

Vote for School but Not for Vote for Money

Flanagan, Ill. — (AP) — The voters have the Flanagan school board just a little perplexed. They voted to build a new high school and authorized the board to purchase a site, but defeated a proposal to issue $100,000 in bonds to pay for the school, land and equipment.

A Rose, By Any Name

Eight Turkish babies first saw the light of day when the country took its census. What was more appropriate than to name the new born infants "Census"? We've heard of children being named "Valentine" and "Patrick" for obvious reasons, but think of a poor child born on Thanksgiving, whose parents used the same system of tagging. But, after all, what's in a name? It's a sure fact, however, you'll name Post-Crescent Ads your favorite medium of advertising no matter what day you use them.

Kennedy Quits As Ambassador

Keeps Title Until Successor Is Named
But Won't Resume Job

Washington—(AP)—The resignation of Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to Great Britain, made a fresh gap today in the war-depleted ranks of United States ambassadors to European nations.

Kennedy announced that he was relinquishing the London post after a White House conference with President Roosevelt yesterday.

Pending appointment of a successor—a choice likely to be delayed—Kennedy said Mr. Roosevelt desired him to keep his designation as Ambassador, but the envoy made plain he would not return to England in that capacity.

Kennedy's resignation, which had been in the president's hands since Nov. 6, pre-dated by a single day that of William C. Bullitt as ambassador to France. John Cudahy resigned last Thursday as ambassador to Belgium.

At present the United States has only two ambassadors at posts in Europe.

Roosevelt on Inspection Trip

Expected to Go to Miami, and Then Make Caribbean Cruise

Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt left Washington by train today on a trip which was expected to take him first to Miami or some other Florida port and from there into the Caribbean sea for an inspection cruise of defense facilities.

Before his departure, Stephen Early, White House secretary, told reporters he could not disclose the president's destination, but added that it was "pretty well known" where Mr. Roosevelt was going.

Early said the president planned to be away from the capital until the week beginning Dec. 16 "unless some emergency demands his return earlier."

Unofficial sources said preparations were being made at Miami for the president to embark there on a warship for a swing into the Caribbean defense area. He is expected to combine his favorite sport of fishing with visits to new or recently-expanded fortifications erected in the defense of the Panama canal.

U. S. Navy Seen as 'Strongest Single Sea Force in World'

Washington—(AP)—The navy's high command coupled formal reports today that the United States fleet was "probably the strongest single sea force in the world," with disclosure that additional sea and naval air bases were under consideration.

Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, revived the controversial issue over establishment of a strong base at the tiny island of Guam—on Japan's doorstep—with the declaration that advanced bases were necessary in both the Atlantic and Pacific to thwart any approach of hostile forces.

Stark's annual report made public yesterday, discussed the strength and readiness of the fleet. It followed the same general lines of the report issued the day before by the

Four Feared Killed as Blast Destroys Plant

Tacoma, Wash. — (AP) — Four men were reported killed or seriously injured today in an explosion which destroyed the mixing plant at the Columbia Powder company, 15 miles south of here.

Company officials refused to discuss the blast but Undersheriff Clyde Knowles said the coroner had been sent to the blast scene after the company revealed that four men were working in the building.

The blast destroyed the mixing plant, which was isolated from offices and storage structures.

The explosion occurred shortly after the men went to work at 7 o'clock this morning.

Identity of the men in the building was not disclosed.

The company is withholding names pending arrival of the coroner and a more complete identification by company officials, Knowles said.

It was the second powder plant explosion in this area in the last week. A black powder unit of the Du Pont Powder works exploded last Thursday.

The Columbia plant employs 60 men but most of them do not report for work until 8 o'clock a. m.

It could not be determined immediately if the company were engaged in manufacturing explosives for national defense purposes.

Only police officers and company officials were permitted inside the powder plant's heavily-fenced enclosure. The building where the explosion occurred is half a mile from the plant's entrance.

Because of a heavy fog it was impossible to see what damage had been done.

The Columbia powder plant was built five years ago on the site of the Foster-Newbegin lumber mill near Kapowsin.

2,000 End Strike at Kentucky TVA Project

Gilbertsville, Ky. — (AP) — Two thousand employees of the TVA Kentucky dam, idle since last Tuesday when a walkout of skilled workers caused the project to be shut down, returned today to their jobs.

Project Manager George P. Jessup reported that construction was running smoothly.

Among the men who went back to work were Walter E. Blanton and two Negro men who had been laid off for fighting on TVA property.

The walkout was staged in protest by Blanton's fellow workers of the American Federation of Labor.

An agreement reached by the TVA management and labor representatives provided that the three men be reinstated.

secretary of the navy, informing the nation that on any comparable basis its navy was "second to none."

The secretary's report asserted, however, that completion of the two-ocean fleet construction program must be pressed "to meet our naval defense requirements simultaneously in both oceans against any possible combination of powers concerted action against us."

Stark prefaced his recommendations for more shore bases with the declaration that "force is now the only safe insurance of national survival."

"We should develop and maintain such bases in our own overseas possessions wherever they are needed," he added, "be it in Puerto Rico, Hawaii or Guam."

Party Leaders are Called to Appear At Federal Probe

Washington—(AP)—A federal grand jury charged with investigating alleged irregularities of the recent political campaign has summoned a number of top-ranking Democratic and Republican officials to testify here Thursday and Friday.

The jury was instructed by the justice department last week to inquire into charges that the corrupt practices act and the Hatch act limiting campaign expenditures had been violated.

Maurice Milligan, special assistant to the attorney general named to conduct the investigation, will take charge of presenting the witnesses.

Among those summoned for Thursday are:

Edward J. Flynn, chairman of the Democratic National committee; Representative Joseph P. Martin, chairman of the Republican National committee; Oliver A. Quayle, Jr., treasurer of the Democratic National committee; C. B. Goodspeed, treasurer of the Republican National committee; Oren Root, Jr., president of the Associated Willkie Clubs of America; John W. Hanes, former undersecretary of the treasury and member of the National Committee of Democrats for Willkie; Lewis W. Douglas, chairman National Committee of Democrats for Willkie.

British Shoot Down Famous Nazi Flier

Berlin—(AP)—Bursts from the guns of a British chaser plane ended the career of Major Helmut Wick, 25-year-old German air ace, just at the moment he bagged his fifty-sixth opponent, informed quarters today.

They reported that a comrade said he saw Wick fall out and descend to the water off the Isle of Wight and, although returning fliers mobilized the German rescue service, rescue attempts proved unsuccessful.

Wick's group was said to have been engaged in a fierce dogfight with a superior number of British Spitfires and Hurricanes at the time.

Nazi Merchant Vessel Leaves Harbor in Chile

Coquimbo, Chile—(AP)—The German ship Portland, which has been in the harbor here since the outbreak of the European war, was sailed last night for an unannounced destination.

Sailing of the 7,132-ton vessel, a Hamburg-American line ship built in 1928, followed closely the departure of two German vessels from Tampico, Mexico, Friday in an apparent attempt to run the British naval blockade.

Logan Bill Sent To White House; Veto Expected

Senate Amendments Accepted in House By Vote of 176 to 51

Washington—(AP)—The house finally completed work on the Logan-Walker bill today, sending it to the White House, where some congressional leaders said it might be vetoed by President Roosevelt.

The house accepted senate amendments to the measure by a roll call vote of 176 to 51.

The legislation would provide uniform standards of procedure for many quasi-judicial federal agencies, such as the labor board, and would expedite court appeals of decisions, orders and regulations of those agencies.

Democrat Leader Barkley of the senate said he would urge a presidential veto for the measure when the senate passed it by 27 to 25 vote last week.

The principal question was whether the veto message would be returned to congress in time for votes on overriding it before this session ends, probably a few days before Christmas.

Opponents had hoped to send the bill to conference in the belief that delay would help their chances of adjournment before final action was taken.

British Convoy Under Attack

U-Boats and Planes In Raid About 400 Miles From Ireland

New York—(AP)—Undersea and aircraft raiders loosed a widespread attack on a convoy of British vessels about 400 miles west of Ireland last night and early today.

Apparently 10 vessels were attacked.

Repeated distress signals picked up here by Mackay Radio indicated the raiders were running down their prey in an eastward zig-zag chase which lasted for more than five tense hours.

Full details were lacking, but radio listeners heard distress calls from at least five vessels early today in addition to five others reported previously, all from the same general vicinity.

The chase was indicated as covering a course of about 250 miles, which led to the belief in marine circles that the attacking vessels included the auxiliary cruiser which Berlin announced yesterday had already sunk 79,000 tons of British shipping.

Roosevelt Signs Bill Aimed at Saboteurs

Washington—(AP)—Saboteurs who wilfully destroy or damage national defense materials will be liable to prison terms of 10 years and fines of $10,000 under legislation signed today by President Roosevelt.

Nazis Rain Bombs On Southampton

Germans Say Harbor Facilities, Industrial Plants and Drydocks are Attack Targets

Berlin—(AP)—Bombs of all sizes were dumped on war-essential objectives on Southampton during the night, D. B. E. reported, when Nazi air-raiders focused a violent attack on the great manufacturing-shipping center on Britain's south coast for the second successive night.

Squadrons of planes hammered harbor facilities, drydocks and industrial plants in the port and also interrupted rail service between Southampton and London, the official German news agency said.

Informal sources reported that docks, rail lines and industrial areas were damaged badly during the attack and German pilots observed vast yellow smoke clouds over the city.

They reported 11 British planes down and two Germans missing.

German military commentators studying reports of successive intense air bombardments of English cities radiated confidence and said the war in the air was developing strictly according to plan.

They commented on a high command reference to weakening British defenses, asserting that German bombers were able to fly low over Southampton in the Saturday night raid, and speculated whether this meant weariness of British fighters or a husbanding of strength for some future action.

Returning fliers said raging fires in Southampton—some said there were as many as 70—could be seen in Cherbourg, 70 miles away, after the Saturday night attack.

Germans said raids such as the devastating attacks aimed at Coventry, Birmingham and Bristol could be carried on indefinitely without extending the Luftwaffe to the utmost and also asserted that Germany herself was taking little punishment in return.

A few British planes visited Germany, they said, but they did no military damage.

Berlin never has reported a daylight raid and the air-raid sirens have not been heard at night for some time.

The high command's Sunday communiqué, referring to the war at sea, reported that a Nazi surface raider had sent 79,000 tons of shipping to the bottom, not including "successes as a result of the cruiser's mine-laying activity."

It also said three British speedboats had been damaged—two probably fatally—in an attack which resulted in the crippling of a German steamer off the coast of the Netherlands.

Last of 31 Bodies Taken From Mine

Cadiz, Ohio—(AP)—The last four bodies today were dug out of shattered rock in the gas-filled mine coal mine, where 31 miners were killed Friday in an explosion. Deadly gas continued to hamper a general cleanup of the blast area.

Most of the bodies were taken out yesterday and this saddened community held funeral services today for Pete Speicher, whose body was recovered Saturday.

John Mullen, engineer at the Ohio and Pennsylvania Coal company, said that the 31 were killed outright. State mine officials have not decided when to start an investigation of the explosion, tentatively blamed on gas.

Cars driven by Elroy Krueger, 19, 226 W. Wisconsin avenue, and Ed Schlichting, 30, 723 N. Richmond, collided about 10:10 Saturday night, Krueger was going north on Morrison street, and Schlichting east on Pacific street when the accident occurred, it was reported to police.

At 5:40 Saturday afternoon cars driven by B. J. Brennan, 25, and W. H. Falk, 29, 127 S. Story street, collided at the intersection of Lawrence and State streets. Brennan was going north on State street and the taxi was passing, it was reported to police.

Cars were driven by Warren Smith, 48, 539 N. Center street, and George

Fire Loss May be Set at $500,000

Chicago—(AP)—Flames raced through the uncompleted Institute of Technology building at Northwestern university today, causing damage which Harry L. Wells, university business manager, said might reach $500,000.

Workmen reported the fire was started when a salamander ignited a tar-covered tarpaulin in the center of the H-shaped building.

Fed by wooden scaffolding and the straw covering newly laid concrete, the flames spread quickly through about three quarters of the structure, which is situated on the Evanston campus of the university, near the shore of Lake Michigan.

Five hundred workmen crawled out of the lower windows and scrambled down ladders to escape the blaze. One of them, Frank Heidenblatt, a mason living in Des Plaines, was overcome by smoke and taken to Evanston hospital.

The Evanston fire department, hampered by freezing weather and limited equipment, was forced to call for help from the Chicago department, which dispatched three engines and a divisional marshal.

Gray was shot to death in the garage of a lonely country schoolhouse in eastern Colorado. Medberry, a hitchhiker, eventually was arrested after returning to Fond du Lac. At the trial he contended he shot accidentally while he and Gray grappled for a gun.

Other Forces In North are Falling Back

Athens—(AP)—Capture of 5,000 Italians, the largest mass of prisoners yet taken by the Greek army, was announced today from the northern front.

Their surrender, dispatches said, was the signal for a general retreat of other Italian forces in the area, leaving a huge gap in the fascist center.

Fresh Italian troops rushed to bolster sagging defense lines earlier had been reported being smashed back with the regiments they came to reinforce and the Greeks claimed "important" new advances all along the Albanian battlefield.

Mention of the exact place where the front was reported smashed was forbidden by military authorities. They permitted mention merely that it was in the north.

One headline line broken.

The capture of the Italians, this report said, came after the fascist command sent a message to the Greek line that he was ready to surrender.

The Greeks, fearing a trap, cautiously surrounded the Italians with heavy detachments, this account went on.

"The psychological effect of the surrender was such that it broke enemy resistance in the area and led to a hasty, precipitous retreat," it said.

Abandon Positions

"One after another of the Italian columns abandoned their positions, leaving behind all sort of equipment in large quantities."

Seventeen captured Italian officers disclosed that elite Italian legions which had fought in Spain's civil war had taken part in defense of this area and were pursuing in disorder.

Before this report was received, advances from the front described the fighting line at the start of the sixth week of war as swinging like a barbed wire toward the Adriatic coast, from a coastal area, just north of the Greek frontier, to Lake Ochrida, on the Yugoslav frontier.

With this break, the arching battlefront appeared to have been cut into two segments, with the heaviest fighting still raging in the south around Argirocastro, the last remaining fascist invasion base in southern Albania.

Mother Arrested As Slayer of Son

Adams, Wis. — (AP) — Mrs. Edna Vorobit, 42, was remanded to the custody of the Adams county sheriff today on a general charge of homicide following the slaying of her 7-year-old son, Frank Edward, Jr., in the Vorobit home Sunday morning.

The mother was turned over to the custody of Sheriff Frank Hollman following arraignment before County Judge Charles Gilman. District Attorney Fulton Colipp said he would petition Circuit Judge Clayton Van Pelt for an order committing her to the hospital for criminal insane at Waupun.

Mrs. Vorobit stood mute upon arraignment.

The boy, ill of a kidney ailment since September, was found strangled to death in bed Sunday morning.

Colipp quoted Dr. Harry Shapiro, Adams physician, as saying that the mother told him that "I couldn't stand to see him suffer."

Sharp Fighting at French Indo-China Border Is Reported

Hanoi, French Indo-China—(AP)—Sharp hostilities on French Indo-China's border with Thailand (Siam) apparently were continuing today, but colonial officials said they had no details of the fighting, evidently centered around the border town of Thakhek.

A communiqué issued today said the 500-ton Indo-Chinese naval vessel Beryle had been attacked by Thai planes yesterday in the gulf of Siam, on which both Indo-China and Thailand have coasts.

In a first attack, it said, nine bombs fell harmlessly and in a second attack the Beryle's anti-aircraft guns drove off the bombers, damaging one.

Unprotected Bandong Island, 60 miles below Vientiane, was occupied by Thai forces without a fight, the communiqué added.

All communication with Bangkok, capital of Thailand, remains cut.

French officials' report situation is grave.

Native uprisings now in southern Indo-China, said they were taking it to suppress them.

Germans Parade In Bucharest; Mihai Cheered

New Nazi Divisions Arriving as Anarchy Spreads in Rumania

Bucharest.—(P)—A German motorized division paraded through the streets of Bucharest today, with King Mihai bringing up the rear. More than fifty German warplanes flew over a reviewing stand occupied by German generals surrounding Premier General Ion Antonescu and Iron Guard Chief Ion Horia Sima.

Crowds which stood silent as the nazis passed cheered lustily when Mihai was driven by in an automobile.

(Mihai had been reported in border reports last week to have fled Bucharest as a result of Iron Guard disorders in the Rumanian capital.)

On the Hungarian-Rumanian Frontier.—(P)—Four fresh German divisions were moving through Hungary on route to Rumania today as reports trickling across the border told of increasing anarchy throughout that country.

Unconfirmed reports from Bucharest said these additional German troops would attempt to restore order there and in other large Rumanian cities where Iron Guard extremists have taken bloody revenge on officials of the ousted regime of former King Carol II.

The German divisions, moving by rail through Slovakia and thence through Hungary, will bolster many Nazi detachments already guarding Rumania's oil fields and pipelines.

(Four divisions approximately 60,000 men. German strength in Rumania has been estimated previously as high as 500,000.)

Over the frontier came a picture of Rumania's embattled Iron guard split now into three factions and the Rumanian army apparently wavering over what course to take.

Three Rival Groups.—One section of the green-shirted guardmen was said to be supporting the guard leader, Vice Premier Horia Sima, who has besought discipline.

A second was reported behind Ion Codreanu, father of Corneliu Zelea Codreanu, slain founder of the guard, whose death during the Carol regime it has been avenging with a blood purge.

A third section, and by far the largest, reportedly was out of control.

A parade in Bucharest of a German motorized division was interpreted in Hungary as a warning that German legions are prepared to restore order in strife-ridden Rumania unless the Rumanians do it themselves.

5,609,000 Bushels Of Grain Move From Lakehead in One Day

Fort William, Ont., (P)—The largest quantity of grain to leave the lakehead in a single day this season—5,609,000 bushels—moved down Lake Superior last night in wintry weather.

It was loaded on 24 vessels which cast off from the harbor of Fort William-Port in order to get under the marine insurance deadline. From how until Dec. 12—the official close of 1940 navigation—lake boats will travel under increased marine insurance rates.

Only one vessel remained in port loading grain when the other ships left. Continuance of favorable weather conditions, however, is expected to coax some of the vessels back for additional loads and it is anticipated approximately 15,000,000 bushels more will be shipped down the lake before Dec. 12.

Il Duce in Desperate Effort to Save Face

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York.—(P)—Mussolini is making a desperate effort with heavy reinforcements to remedy the already far-reaching effects of his Greek defeat without having to thrust a side pride and appeal to Hitler for help.

A fascist communique this morning reported that defending Italian troops had thrown back the attacking enemy in one sector. The victorious Greeks, however, claimed to have made important new advances all along their line.

That line, working on a pivot on the Adriatic coast near the Greco-Albanian boundary, is swinging across the mountains and valleys of Albania toward the sea like a wind-screen wiper.

This astonishing success of the little Greek army against the might of Rome is having a tremendous moral effect on both Britain and the neutral countries of the Balkans.

The Turkish press even claims, with evident relish, that the nazis have been balked in their scheme for assaulting England in the Near East by means of a drive across the Dardanelles. The British already are talking of the possibility of utilizing Greece as the gateway for a grand offensive by land against the German rear.

Invaluable Base

All this savors a bit of wishful thinking, of course, but there is no gainsaying that if the Greeks, with British help, can hold their own against Italy, they will have opened up an invaluable base for English operations against the axis.

It will give the British a land foothold against Hitler which they have not hoped to achieve for another year at best, owing to their inferiority in the air.

As a matter of fact the fascists have got themselves into a predicament from which it would be extremely difficult for Hitler to rescue them at this time. There are only two really feasible forms of help the fuhrer could give his axis partner—one being with an air fleet and the other the sending of an army against Greece through either Yugoslavia or Bulgaria.

There can be small doubt that the violation of the nervous neutrality of either Yugoslavia or Bulgaria might precipitate a general Balkan upheaval, that is exactly what the fuhrer has been trying so carefully to avoid.

So far as air assistance is concerned, that would be valuable, though it would require a huge aerial navy to reduce Greece at this late juncture in the operations. While Hitler likely could spare a considerable number of planes, he wouldn't want to weaken his attack on the British Isles—an assault which is calculated in part to compel the English to withdraw forces from the eastern Mediterranean to defend the homeland.

The present indications are that Hitler intends to let his partner work out his own salvation. If Il Duce can do this, it certainly will be much better for the prestige of the axis which already has suffered heavily because of the fascist reverse in the Greek adventure.

Mussolini's greatest danger at the moment is that his communications between Italy and Albania may be severed by the growing British attack on them. It has plenty of forces and materials to devote to the Greek show, but cutting off communications would be fatal, for it would deliver the Italian army in Albania over to the enemy. An expeditionary force is only as strong as the supplies and reinforcements available for it.

Wisconsin Benefits In Industrial Upswing

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison.—Heartening evidence of the effect of the current industrial upswing on the economic life of Wisconsin was reported today by the state commission and the state public welfare department, which showed substantial increases in factory payrolls, and encouraging reductions in direct relief demands, for the early fall period.

About 17,000 factory workers have been added to the payrolls of Wisconsin business since August, according to the industrial commission, and during the period from September to October, there was an increase of 4 per cent. A total of about 242,500 persons are now earning wages in Wisconsin, compared with only about 225,000 during August, two months earlier.

Potentially as significant was the announcement from the public welfare department that for the first time in nine years October relief costs did not soar upward.

Decline in Load

In fact, and contrary to previous experience during the last depression decade, October relief caseload actually declined, although only slightly.

There were 39,492 persons on direct relief in the state in October, compared with more than 50,000 exactly a year ago, a drop of more than 21 per cent from last year.

Industrial payrolls in Wisconsin rose 7 per cent during the September-October period, according to the industrial commission's analysis. The average work week in the state is now 41, average hourly earnings 69.1 cents, and average weekly earnings $28.36.

The employment and payroll index in the Fox river valley was somewhat changed last month.

While Appleton's total employment declined slightly from the previous month, less than 1 per cent, total wage earners in Green Bay numbered 11 per cent more in October than in September. In the previous month the situation was reversed.

Appleton's employment is now 13 per cent above a year ago, while the employment situation in Green Bay rose 5.4 per cent above the previous year in October.

Average Earnings

During October the average worker in Appleton got $25.42 a week, while in Green Bay he got $25.96.

Other cities in the Fox river valley area reported employment as follows in October as compared with September:

Fond du Lac, a gain of almost 5 per cent;	Manitowish, a gain of 1 per cent;
Marquette, up 6 per cent;	Menasha, down 1 per cent;
Oshkosh, up 3 per cent;	Sheboygan up 2 per cent.

Contrary to the state at large trend, northeastern Wisconsin counties showed generally larger caseloads for direct relief in October than in September.

Number of relief clients, and the percentage of change during the month for the counties in the Appleton area are as follows:

County	Load	Pct. Change
Brown	824	+1.8
Calumet	60	+3.1
Manitowish	467	-0.2
Outagamie	419	+0.7
Shawano	217	+9.0
Waupaca	304	-2.3
Winnebago	884	-2.7

Four Boys Named as Top Meat Producers

Chicago.—(P)—Four boys were named today as the nation's outstanding 4-H club meat producers in a contest sponsored by Thomas E. Wilson, Chicago meat packer.

They were Jack Summers, 17, New Berlin, Ill.; Dayton Rose, 17, Bearden, Okla.; Robert Zielinski, 20, Salem, Ore.; and Robert Nixon, 19, Bridgeport, W. Va.

Summers, Rose and Zielinski were awarded $200 college scholarships and all four won trips to the 19th 4-H club congress held during the annual international livestock exposition.

Raise Quota of NYA Workers in Wisconsin

Milwaukee.—(P)—John Fayville, Jr., state administrator of the national youth administration, announced today that Wisconsin's quota of NYA workers would be increased 1,200 to a total of 8,200.

The state administrator also announced that high school graduates who had reached the age of 17 would be eligible for employment on NYA projects.

Flush Illinois Sanitary Canal

Wash Day Comes as Supreme Court Permits Increased Flowage

Chicago.—(P)—It was "wash day" along the Illinois waterway today—by order of the United States supreme court.

But, instead of housewives, those officiating at the "scrubbing" were engineers and chemists, anxious to witness results of the first of 10 days' increased diversion of Lake Michigan water into the waterway.

On Nov. 25 the supreme court authorized the Chicago sanitary district to increase from 1,500 to 10,000 cubic feet a second the flowage of lake water.

This experimental flushing will continue until Dec. 12 under the court's order and will act primarily to wash away sewage accumulated in the Brandon road pool north of the Joliet dam.

Lengthy hearings were conducted before special master Monte M. Leemann on Illinois' plea for a two-year temporary increase in the diversion.

Six other lake states opposed the Illinois request but gave their agreement to the 10-day experiment. Residents along the main channel of the waterway have maintained that sickening odors from accumulated sediment constitute a health hazard.

Chemists will study results of the flushing by taking approximately 70 tests of the water each of the 10 days the increased diversion is maintained. Water samplers from a dozen points will bring the samples to laboratories in Stickney, Morris and Joliet.

Entire Italian Line Retreats Despite New Troops, Greeks Say

Surrender of 3,000 Italian troops, leaving a huge gap in the middle of the 100-mile Balkan war front, was reported in Greek dispatches today, while in the battle of Britain the Germans announced a violent new assault on the English shipping port of Southampton.

The Greeks said the wholesale surrender of Premier Mussolini's fascist legions—the largest seizure of prisoners in the war—had signalled a general Italian retreat in the central sector.

"The victory, without exaggeration, is of exceptional importance, for the enemy line in this sector has been destroyed and all danger eliminated for us," a Greek dispatch said.

The assault of Southampton (pop. 175,000) interrupted rail communication with London, Nazi quarters said, following up Saturday night's raid which they asserted had left the big shipping port engulfed in flames.

After British censorship had first refused to permit identification of the assaulted town, a London communique confirmed that it was Southampton, peace-time port of call for trans-Atlantic liners.

In the five-week-old Balkan war, Premier Mussolini's high command reported that furious attacks by an entire Greek army corps (about 45,000 men) were beaten off by Italian troops attempting to halt the Greek counter-invasion in Albania.

In contrast to the Italian report, the Greeks said that fresh Italian shock troops were being driven back and that Greek columns scored "important" new advances everywhere.

A Greek spokesman pictured the fighting line as swinging like a barn door toward the Adriatic sea, pivoting on a hinge on the Albanian coast, near Argirocastro, to Lake Ochrida, on the Yugoslav frontier.

In the Lake Ochrida sector, the Greeks said, the Italians were retreating through ice and snow toward Elbasani, 40 miles north of captured Pogradetz, on the highway to the Albanian capital, Tirana.

The Greek press answered an Italian radio assertion that Greek bayonet fighting is "a barbarous form of warfare," commenting: "Barbarous fighting is certainly less barbarous than using Italian bombing planes against non-combatants."

At the same time, British military experts in London cautioned that the Greek advance henceforth must be at a slower pace, because:

1. The Greeks are fighting on strange soil.
2. Their lines of communications are longer, and they have not had time to organize them.
3. The Italians have thrown many fresh troops into the conflict and are making a determined stand.

Observers in Egypt predicted that, as a result of Greece's surprising successes against the Italian invasion, Great Britain's army would carry the fight to the axis in southeast Europe.

Cairo dispatches said that, while any plans the British might have for moving troops into Greece were being kept secret, it was regarded as certain that any move by the axis—such as a German thrust in Turkey or through Bulgaria in Greece—would bring a swift counter-move by the British.

In the Rumanian town of Aluliu, Premier General Ion Antonescu yesterday assured 100,000 cheering Iron Guardists that Germany and Italy had showed "understanding" of Rumania's desire to regain Hungarian-occupied Transylvania.

State Gets $93,000 From U. S. Toward Fire Fighting Cost

Washington.—(P)—The forest service announced that $93,381 has been allotted to Wisconsin under the federal-state cooperative program established by the Clarke-McNary Act to help meet forest fire fighting costs for the 1941 fiscal year.

The state is required to spend at least an equal amount of its own or contributed private funds for fire prevention on state and private lands.

Forest officials said 2,064 forest fires occurred on state and private protected lands in Wisconsin last year compared with 973 in 1938.

They resulted in 9,944 acres of protected area being burned over last year against 8,830 the previous year, the increase being attributed to adverse weather conditions such as prolonged dry spells and high winds. The total area under fire protection was given as 13,604,666 acres. Fire damage to forests, as lands was estimated at $22,291.

Forest service officials said 1.8 of last year's fires were man-caused, 20 resulted from lightning, 1 from not clearly determined cause. Smokers were responsible for 6 brush and debris burners, 4 campers, 81 lumbering operations, 178 incendiaries, 386.

Oppose Any Move to Limit Right to Strike

Milwaukee.—(P)—"Unalterable opposition" to any legislative limitation of the right to strike was voted last night by the executive board of the Wisconsin Industrial Union council (CIO).

A resolution approved by the board asserted that "the best defense against anti-labor laws is the organization of the unorganized and the strengthening of the labor movement in general."

Land Department Has Vital State Functions

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth article in a series describing some of the lesser-known divisions of the Wisconsin state government.)

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Although the constitutional fathers considered it important enough to give it recognition as one of the original and required departments of the state government, the state land department, because of the unspectacular nature of its work, gets singularly little public attention in spite of its broad scope and rich assets. Set up to administer what were originally huge grants of public lands for the benefit of the state common school fund, the state land department is today run by a commission which is in charge of almost 200,000 acres of timber land and more than $15,000,000 in cash and securities investments. In addition, it receives and invests all fines and forfeitures and escheats for the benefit of the common school fund, and gets 5 per cent of the proceeds of all federal land sales in Wisconsin.

Commissioners of public lands, under the constitution, are three constitutional elected officials, the secretary of state, the state treasurer, and the attorney general. Chief administrative officer and head of the department is T. H. Bakken, who grew up with the job and a few years ago succeeded A. D. Campbell, veteran department head.

Grant Loans
 The department has become a bank for hundreds of local government units in Wisconsin. Short and long term loans are granted by the commissioners, out of their $15,000,000 school trust fund, for school districts, cities and villages in temporary need, and distressed counties. The fund also invests heavily in municipal bonds. Recently the interest rate on notes was reduced to 2 1/2 per cent, as the result of competition from private lending agencies.

Bakken recently explained that most of the huge holdings of northern Wisconsin forest land once owned by the commissioners of public lands have been disposed of, but that about 25 per cent of the 180,000 acres which remain, most of it in northeastern Wisconsin and particularly in Forest county, consists of valuable virgin timber. Small tracts are constantly being sold, or timber removed through sale. Commissioners offer land or timber for sale at public bids. Land now owned by the department is valued at about $2,000,000. One of the department's policies prohibits the sale of lake frontage land.

The department has the original record of the sale and conveyance of state lands and has on file the field notes and plats of the original and subsequent federal surveys of lands in the state. Documents made by the department from these records are used by abstractors and lawyers, and the field notes and plats by surveyors in running and locating the original section lines and corners.

Violators Aid Education
 The department is charged with protecting the interest of the state in lands under any federal grant, uncovered lake beds, made lands in navigable waters, as well as in unsurveyed islands.

Because of the provision that fines are turned into the trust fund, law violators are unconsciously helping to provide better educational facilities for Wisconsin children. A steady flow of fines during the past 10 years has increased the common school fund administered by Bakken by nearly $2,000,000 he reported recently. With the addition of escheats, or property left by Wisconsin citizens who died without either heirs or a will, the school fund is being swelled constantly.

Ironically, the end of the prohibition era was a financial setback for the common school fund because a large part of the fines which had increased its annual income to half a million dollars during the lush years came from liquor law violators. Any property willed to the state without a specific purpose designated also goes to the common school fund under the state constitution.

Offer to Support Mother-in-Law Is New One on Judge

Chicago—Judge Rudolph Desort thought he had heard everything that could be said in a divorce case—until Walter Appelt, spoke up.

Appelt, defendant in divorce proceedings, said he had a "sincere affection" for his mother-in-law and wanted to support her.

Judge Desort was so startled he asked Appelt to repeat it.

"In all my experience in the divorce court, that's the first tribute to a mother-in-law I've ever heard," said the judge.

Then he halted proceedings for a look at the mother-in-law, Mrs. Ida Koonitz of Effingham, Ill. "You must have some rare and unusual quality," Judge Desort told her. "I think you deserve at least a gold statue or a diamond medal."

Mrs. Koonitz' daughter, Waneta, 28, seeks a divorce on grounds of cruelty. The Appelts have one daughter, Marcella, 5, whom Appelt has agreed to let Mrs. Koonitz care for. Judge Desort asked the couple to try to effect a reconciliation.

Johns Wants Normal Budget To Be Balanced

Voices Opposition To Proposed Boost In U. S. Debt Limit

Washington—(AP)—The federal government, Congressman Johns (R-Wis.) says, should balance its budget next year, exclusive of national defense items.

Pointing out that $12,800,000 in appropriations and authorizations for defense were voted by congress in the last eight months, he said—sufficient taxes could not be imposed to pay off the entire amount in one year.

"But the budget on other items should be balanced and as much as we can of the defense bill should be paid," Johns said in a statement, declaring:

"It is time that the people made sacrifices sufficient to balance the budget outside of defense—it's the only way I know of making the people tax conscious and to stop the 1 1/2 year spending spree."

He said the government's annual interest bill on borrowed money exceeds $1,000,000,000 and declared that as late as 1918 the government collected $782,334,548 and it only cost $724,056,202 to run the government that year.

Johns also said he was opposed to the proposal to increase the debt limit from $49,000,000,000 to $68,000,000,000, asserting it was necessary to increase it somewhat but that this should be done gradually, as required.

First effect of heavier spending will be reflected in the tax burden early next year, the congressman said, when payments on 1940 general and income taxes fall due.

He said the excess profits tax would be a "big burden" on the earnings of every corporation and that this would affect the income of individuals receiving dividends from these corporations.

Catlin Thinks Legislators Will Move to Ban Red Party

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington—Mark Catlin Jr., of Appleton, re-elected to the Wisconsin assembly, while visiting in Washington revealed a "strong possibility" that the state legislature would consider moves to outlaw the Communist party as a legal political party in Wisconsin.

This proposal, which was urged for the states this week by Chairman Dies of the committee investigating un-American activities, has been on the agenda of the legislature previously, but there was insufficient time to consider it adequately, Catlin declared.

"In what form legislation to outlaw the Communist party would come up is not yet known," he indicated, "but some provision may be made requiring candidates for office to declare their beliefs regarding the constitution and American institutions, generally."

Catlin said there would be a legislative caucus for Republican members of the legislature Dec. 7 at Fond du Lac and major issues for the session beginning in January will be discussed.

Asked regarding the possible suppression of Nazi activity in Wisconsin, he said, "So far as my present knowledge is concerned, we haven't had even an average interest in Nazi activity there, because little, if any, exists in the state."

Major Issue
 One major issue to be considered in the legislature, he said, is the question of the continuation or re-

Government Presses Steel Industry for Production Hike

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington, D. C.—The hottest situation in the defense picture is the effort here to persuade the steel industry to undertake an immediate expansion program.

When the defense commission met with President Roosevelt this week he pressed members again for immediate action.

The industry has been against further expansion, fearing overcapacity after the emergency has passed. Roosevelt told them that problem could be faced when it came along but that in the meantime we must have steel and more steel. He wants production and more production.

But somehow the slogan doesn't seem to be as appealing to industry when it comes from Roosevelt as when Willkie was saying, with all industrialists cheering him, that he would get more production, that only the productive could be strong and only the strong could be free.

Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., former chairman of the U. S. Steel corporation, is on a hot spot. He has been inclined to ride with the industry in opposing expansion, and he told the president the whole matter was under study in the defense commission, with a report expected in about two weeks.

Stettinius went from the White House back to his office, where a previously arranged press conference took place. Several newspapermen present were aware of the warm inside struggle over steel. Stettinius, anticipating direct questions, explained at the outset of his press conference that he wanted to confine the discussion to aluminum. Whereupon he announced plans for large expansion in the aluminum industry, which will carry it to two and a half times the capacity of 1939. He was full of praise for the willingness of aluminum manufacturers to undertake this expansion as an ordinary commercial risk. The expansion would make it possible, he said, to supply all military needs, American and British, and at the same time all civilian needs without restriction.

Reporters then asked if the same thing could not be done in other industries—in steel, for instance. Stettinius ducked back quickly, explaining that he wanted to confine the discussion to aluminum.

Shortage Would Result In Cut For Civilians

By some in the government the steel situation is regarded as acute. If a shortage is encountered, civilian uses will have to be sharply restricted, with consequent dangers of price inflation or else government controls and a general slowing down of peacetime industry. The curtailment of commercial aircraft manufacture is only a light taste of what would come if steel had to be rationed.

Canada has just been forced to ration steel. The Canadian war industries control board has just announced that for other than war industries, purchases of steel beyond current requirements are forbidden, as a measure to conserve steel for defense needs.

In this Canada is learning from the sad experience of the mother country. England rocked along complacently, her industry bound by rigid conservatism, and it was not until April of this year that the government bestirred itself to crack down with a real system of priority to check the diversion of needed steel which was going to unofficial buyers.

U. S. Will Need Steel If Britain Wins or Loses
 Our steel industry is at practical capacity now and there is concern over whether it will be adequate by 1942 when the defense program will be in full stride.

Possibly one reason for hesitation in the industry about expanding is the thought in many minds that Britain may not be able to carry on the war more than a few months longer. But the answer to that is that if Britain goes under we will expand our defense even more. Ex-

New City Manager Is Named at Two Rivers

Two Rivers—(AP)—Harry W. Knight, 31, finance director and purchasing agent for the village of Winnetka, Ill., Chicago suburb, last week was named city manager of Two Rivers. The city council chose Knight from a field of 61 applicants. Knight, who succeeds Earl J. Donnelly, will take office Jan. 2. His starting salary will be $3,800. After next March 31, his salary will be $4,000.

Harold Appleby, deputy city clerk and former secretary to Donnelly, will continue as acting city manager until Knight's arrival.

Pleads Guilty

Melvin Weber, 32, 524 N. Richmond street, pleaded guilty of drunkenness and was fined $10 and costs with an alternative of 20 days in the county detention camp when he appeared before Judge Thomas H. Ryan in Municipal court Saturday. City police made the arrest.

Gets Road Aid Check

A state road aid check of $2,956.99 has been received by Miss Marie Ziegenhagen. Outagamie county treasurer, from the state highway department. The amount includes $2,806.99 for September highway maintenance and $150 for September highway supervision.

Because of the provision that fines are turned into the trust fund, law violators are unconsciously helping to provide better educational facilities for Wisconsin children. A steady flow of fines during the past 10 years has increased the common school fund admin-

Keeping the People in Tow

At the time Hitler induced Mussolini to enter the war many believed he was making a pronounced blunder in a war that he had been running with rare cleverness.

Hitler was aware of the fact that the Italian people were not in a fighting mood and that Italy might become a beaten ally which is like unto an albatross around a sailor's neck.

Probably Hitler was influenced by two considerations in his invitation to Rome. One was the hope that England, already staggered by impending defeat, would more likely be moved to peace by the appearance of more enemies. But the English aren't given to seeing indistinctly just because they have blood in their eyes. Hitler's other hope was that he would strengthen the will of the German people by removing an always possible source of attack just as he had removed danger from the east by agreement with Moscow.

Some consideration must always be given the people even in a despotism. When they do not cheer, or their applause is forced, leaders become apprehensive. Playing up to the public has always been a problem with every government. Sometimes grossly mistaken courses are followed in the expectation that the people will be better satisfied.

And this is as true with England as with Germany. Take the 1935 elections there. Lloyd George, leader of the Liberal party, then spoke boldly that Hitler constituted no threat to peace because he was not even in a position to challenge France alone. Lloyd George said that Germany had hordes of people but France could put into the field over three millions trained to the queen's taste. The British people liked this talk. They slept better.

Neither did Chamberlain and leaders of his party advise the English people of the extent of German rearmament. If it be said in their defense that they did not themselves realize the full extent of Hitler's war preparations the answer is that they had no business then to run a great nation. Has the public so soon forgotten how England, as well as America, threw every stone and name at Colonel Lindbergh when he told them something about Germany's powerful position in the skies? The people like good news, of course, but they should resent mere coddling.

English leaders wouldn't or couldn't tell the people of the grave storm approaching even as its black outlines were evident. And the Nazis are not above treating the German people to marshmallows although it may make their lot in life and their future harder.

Mongolians Would Know Better

The Inland Waterways Corporation is owned by the American government and operates a barge line service on the Mississippi river.

The dense and despairing intellect of past rulers at Washington created this corporation which is an effective blow to the railroad.

This government of ours took a great sum of money away from the people to set up this corporation by means of which it harmed other carriers and therefore defeated their ability to pay taxes, increase employment, and otherwise carry on.

This barge company only takes the cream of the business. It will accept bulk freight in six to ten carload lots for the upper Mississippi, and in other districts only ten to twenty carload lots. Thus it secures the class of business that makes long freight trains and prevents the railroads from getting out of the red.

But sinister as are the actions and purposes of this corporation it has been so set up and presented to the people as to constitute a fraud upon them, and as baleful a fraud as ever sent Yellow Kid Weil to the calaboose.

It has been the purpose of the government to pretend to the people that this company is operated profitably. That statement is false. The government knows it is false. And in order to delude the public the government actually puts aside as part of the assets of this corporation a large sum of government bonds. The corporation clips the coupons on these bonds and adds them to its "income" in order to make a statement that can be published advantageously.

Great yardstick, isn't it? Fine system of morality for the government to set such an example in decay and hypocrisy! But even with this kept-woman setup the Inland Waterways Corporation reported a deficit of $300,000 last year. If its books were honest, if its corporate setup were genuine instead of designed to deceive the public, that deficit would be much greater.

With railroads gasping for breath we find the government skimming the milk before they can get it, and all at public expense.

Just the plain facts in this case make a black indictment for stupidity against democracy.

"The American Way of Life"

No one has proposed a terse and precise definition of "The American Way of Life," an expression that is now common property. Perhaps a definition would be impossible short of a book. But is a definition necessary since every American instinctively understands what is meant? Louis Adamic in "From Many Lands" collects authenticated stories of great interest concerning those who sought surcease of injustice or a wider horizon of opportunity and came to America. His treatise profusely illustrates, if it does not define, "The American Way of Life."

The book was made possible because of an institution almost exclusively American. It was financed by the Carnegie Foundation. This generation of Americans needs be reminded perhaps that many of the wealthy, Mr. Carnegie included, created great corporations or foundations for the purpose exclusively of employing their wealth to the betterment of mankind, with emphasis upon America. Millions of these funds are devoted annually to scientific research and the promulgation of knowledge as well as the endowment of institutions of learning and the constant assistance to the deserving who are unable to pay their way.

And so because of Andrew Carnegie, dead about a generation, Mr. Adamic collected these stories, the tale of immigrants from most of the countries of the globe, who came here sometime within the last one hundred years. Some of the immigrants achieved great eminence. A number became statesmen, many entered the army and navy. But there were inventors among them, marvelously minded men who found their hands were tied in the countries of their origin, but here, with freedom of action and opportunity, they accomplished results that can be described as little short of wonderful.

It is interesting to know, for instance, how the Greeks have followed with unusual success the sponge industry, and to learn that Mr. Adamic considers the Finns as a "Proud, stubborn, obstinate people, self-critical, with a deep realism and sense of balance," and that in his opinion, they are the most fundamentally democratic people on earth. The Finns follow architecture, engineering and mechanics, whereas, it is quite probable that the Greeks would have little taste for the vocations that to the Finns are the essence of life.

But the author probably would interest his readers more with humble details, stories of the undying affection of simple working people into whose blood the thing that is America entered, and who understood it even though they wrote but little and read but sketchily. There are heroic tales like that of the Armenian minister and his wife who were able to send to this country their six children as each approached maturity, to save them from the typhus and massacres so common in Asia Minor. All these children swiftly climbed the ladder of success. The father stayed to die in Armenia. The mother lived through all the horrors of the evacuation of the last war, and was driven with others like cattle along the highways. Her story was so ennobling that when it was found impossible to gain entry for her into this country, President Harding issued a personal invitation which got her by the gates.

The stories these successful immigrants tell of the fascination of America for them have little to do with money as such. They have more to do with friendship, hospitality, justice, equality before the law and pride in the freedom to hack out their own niche in life, convinced that it is colorful and beautiful, whether it looks the same to others or not.

In tense days like these, when we are upon the threshold of war, and are aware that many among us would, for a little lucre, stab the nation in the back, we may find reassurance in the fact that only the exception, the twisted-minded and the criminal would lacerate the hand that has fed the hungry and nursed the ailing.

TO JACK AND MARY

We met them on their honeymoon,
And it was good to tarry
One moment in the cloudless June
Encircling Jack and Mary!

We only saw them passing by,
But happiness was shining.
A perfect star in a wide sky,
We glimpsed God's bright designing.

We've sailed our matrimonial boat
In fair and stormy weather,
And we felt blessed when we could float
On any sea together.

Life is a joyful cycle still!
Now other young folks carry
Their burdens with our own glad will
God bless you, Jack and Mary!

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

BY DEWEY PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

Washington—You can put it down as certain that the president will not give the Walter-Logan bill a pocket veto; that is, let it die without comment. He will veto it with a scorching blast.

Some of Roosevelt's congressional chiefs want a pocket veto so as not to stir up another battle. They argue that it is best to let sleeping dogs lie. But Roosevelt doesn't see it that way.

He considers the Walter-Logan bill an adroit scheme by big business to scuttle major New Deal reforms through legislative obstructions, after failing to lick them at the polls and in the Supreme court. Among the brickbats Roosevelt will heave at the bill will be these:

1. That it will block the defense program by permitting manufacturers to tie the government's hands in pushing production.

2. That the bill, which professes to give hearings to complainants, actually was jammed through congress without a hearing on its merits.

3. That the bill was passed by a vote of less than one-third of the senate when only one-half of the chamber was present. The vote was 27 to 25.

4. That the real purpose of the legislation is to destroy the National Labor Relations board, wage-hour division, and Securities and Exchange commission.

5. That the bill was drafted by big business interests and put through by a corps of lobbyists, supported by a nationwide campaign of misrepresentation as to its real nature and purpose.

AID FOR GREECE

The mail sack arriving at the Greek legation these mornings at last is showing evidence of popular support for the Greek cause. Letters are pouring in, many with enclosures of cash.

A Mississippi school teacher sends five dollars; an unknown man from Arkansas sends six dollars; Oscar L. Johnson and Harry L. Cargel, both of Washington, send $100 each. The total has reached $40,000, all forwarded to New York, where a special committee is handling contributions.

One letter comes from a retired army engineer in Atlanta, who says, "I could still pass for forty," and asks to enlist in the Greek army. In New Brunswick, N. J., a group of young aviators who flew for Finland now want to fly for Greece.

Authors of these letters get answers signed by the longest name in Washington's diplomatic corps—Diamantopoulos. He is the minister of Greece, and he gratefully accepts both the money and the men. No sort of aid is rejected in Greece's hour of need.

NEW MEXICO PRESIDENT

In the dispatches about the inauguration yesterday of Mexico's new president, Manuel Avila Camacho, nothing is said of his mother, who stands upright in her grave in the State of Puebla.

Senora Camacho de Avila, mother of four sons, was one of the most colorful and dynamic women in the history of Mexico. She died only a year ago, and her last words were to direct that she should be buried upright in the ground. "The Avila Camachos," she said, "have always stood on their feet."

Accordingly, the coffin was put into the ground in an upright position, in the town of Tepic, state of Puebla.

The people of that state needed no such graphic action to remember her. For her sons will not allow her to be forgotten. One now becomes president of the country. Another, Maximino Avila Camacho, is governor of the state of Puebla, actually is a stronger figure than the president.

He is the Mussolini of Mexico—physically powerful, lusty and unscrupulous. The owner of 100 blooded horses and an amateur bull fighter, he stages private bull fights for the amusement of distinguished visitors.

Chances are that it is this mother's son, rather than Manuel who will run the government of Mexico.

BOMB SCARES

Stories of bomb plots and foreign sabotage have made officials of the United States government just a bit jittery, and apparently, G-men now are making a nightly examination of the halls of congress. Here are the results of two such bomb-scare investigations:

Bomb Scare No. 1: At 10 p. m. Saturday night, not a creature stirring in the house press gallery, except the correspondent of a local paper diligently pounding out an "overnight" story for an early morning edition.

Suddenly there was a eerie noise in the rear, as if a door being surreptitiously opened, followed by a soft shuffling. The newsmen investigated, found a strange youth poking around under some desks.

"Hey, what are you doing here?" demanded the reporter.

The mysterious visitor silently flashed an FBI badge, silently continued his searchings.

"What's up? Bomb?" asked the reporter, recalling a recent story that a stick of dynamite had been found near the senate garage. The G-man shot him a cryptic look, and continued his probing.

This confirmed the newsmen's worst fears. "Say," he exclaimed, heading for the door, "let me out of here."

"Don't get excited," called the G-man. "I'm just making a regular inspection."

By this time the G-man had reached the stationery closet, which he proceeded to examine thoroughly, finally emerging with a dark, glistening object.

"You newspaper guys," he grinned, "are all alike."

"Hey, but that bottle back," shouted the reporter. "That's our early morning supply."

Bomb Scare No. 2: Inside story of that Charleston (Boston) navy yard dynamite scare, which caused hundreds of women workers to be searched, is that someone was drunk.

What happened was that the officer of the day received a telephone call that the yard would be blown up the next day. The officer kept the conversation going, but meanwhile got police to trace the call and arrest the man.

Investigation disclosed that he was an employee of the yard, that he was drunk, and once had been an inmate of a mental institution.

However, to take no chances, navy and police officials decided to search all workers the next morning.

MERRY GO ROUND

Representative Mike Bradley, scappy Philadelphia New Dealer, is being vigorously pushed by the House labor bloc for a place on the labor committee. Bradley comes from a strong labor district and is eager for a seat on this powerful committee. . . . As chairman of the military affairs committee, Representative Andrew May of Kentucky, nominally was floor leader for the conscription bill, but the man who really put it through the house was El Paso's tall, popular representative Ewing Thomas, who put in the licks that counted when they were needed. . . . Representative E. C. Gathings of Arkansas is a first term but he already has two listings in the Washington telephone book: one under his real name and the other under his nickname, "Took."

A Bystander In Washington

BY JACK STINNETT

Washington—The Department of Agriculture has gone H. G. Wells.

Dipping into the laboratory and experimental farm stations for material, it has written its own little treatise "on the shape of things to come."

Prefacing it with a note of warning that nobody really can predict exactly what is on the way, the department proceeds to list and discuss experiments and inventions that point in the direction of new wonders on the farm and additional shekels in the farm family's saving account.

There is, for example, the use of colchicine, a powerful drug from Asiatic and European meadow saffron that apparently makes fertile heretofore sterile plant hybrids and may open the door to hundreds of new varieties of fruits, vegetables and field crops.

There's a new acid with a name as long as from here to Tokyo which, when used in a spray with only a half-teaspoonful to 100 gallons of water, keeps apples and other fruit from dropping off the trees.

New Breed Of Chickens
Out in Oklahoma, Dr. R. George Jaap has been working for four years to produce a new breed of chickens (Oklabars), the sex of which may be determined at birth by feather coloring, thus permitting the elimination of an overabundance of males from a shipment of baby chicks.

The department also is casting a watchful eye on the work of the Kansas City scientists who are trying to make palatable food out of grass, which has been found to have vitamin content far greater than that of the four standard classes into which fruits and vegetables are divided.

For instance, the department says, on an equal weight basis, it already has been determined that grass and leaves have about 280 times as much Vitamin A as a potato and 190 times as much as tomatoes and citrus fruits. Grasses also have about ten times as much Vitamin B as any other fruits or vegetables.

Here's one to toy with: the day when you'll go out to the grass farm for a week's supply of fresh food and Johnny can rake the leaves in the front yard for a quick snack.

Hasten Plant Growth
Now also, they're mixing ordinary resin in the soil to hasten plant growth and preserve food and humus in the soil against attacks by micro-organisms.

There's a new hull-less variety of oats (Nakota), developed by South Dakota State college and a new Minnesota popcorn that has 29 per cent greater popping volume than the hot-buttered stuff you've been getting from the corner stand.

In a Philadelphia suburb (and maybe in some others by now) you can buy a whole frozen-packed meal from door-to-door vendors. At last report, it cost 89 cents and contained a pound of fillet of sole, peas, corn and asparagus, with spinach and string beans as alternates. A skillet, two or three pans, bread and butter and dinner's ready.

A product of oats is being used to prevent the flavor changes in foods including ice cream, lard, potato chips, peanuts, oils, candy and coffee.

A cold wax emulsion for many such vegetables as carrots, beets, tomatoes, squash and cucumbers reduces the water loss in shipment and gives them an especially appealing appearance on the stands.

So highly do eastern buyers prize vegetables thus treated they're paying 20 to 30 per cent premium for them, although it costs less than 2 cents a bushel to wax them on the farm.

Little Miss Muffet couldn't have imagined what's happening to curds and whey. They're being made into wafers, rubber, candy and a plastic that stretches and returns slowly to its original shape (don't ask me what that's used for).

It's beginning to look as if the farmer can start singing, "there's a great day coming" and the farm of tomorrow will be a house of a thousand wonders.

10 YEARS AGO

Monday, Dec. 1, 1930

The first blizzard of the season swept over this vicinity Sunday. Five inches of snow blanketed the landscape by evening.

One of history's most dramatic sea captains, Count Felix von Luckner, was to speak at Lawrence Memorial chapel Dec. 10 under the auspices of the Appleton Woman's club.

The national football individual scoring crown seemed destined to rest on the head of Clark Hinkle, chunky fullback of the Bucknell Bisons. Hinkle broke loose for 50 points against Dickinson Thanksgiving day to boost his season's total to 128, superseding Al Marsters, injured Dartmouth star, as the national leader.

25 YEARS AGO

Monday, Dec. 6, 1915

In order to ease the loads of city letter carriers, a new scheme was to be tried that year by local postal authorities. All parcel post mail was to be delivered by horse and wagon, leaving carriers free to deliver first class mail matter.

A new barometer, called the cyclo-stormograph, had been installed in the windows of the Schlager hardware store.

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — To capitol clerks assigned to the job of tabulating the official election returns during the last few weeks, the compilation of the total vote according to each candidate was a dry, tedious job.

But to one of the names at the head of their columns the story told was a supreme thrill. Experienced and skillful political artisan though he is, Fred R. Zimmerman is yet honest enough to admit that he got a deep satisfaction out of the realization that he was given more votes at the Nov. 5 election than any other candidate in Wisconsin history.

That he was the only candidate in the statewide who won reelection by a majority vote, far outnumbering all of his opponents' total votes, and that he piled up more than 150,000 more votes than the head of his own ticket.

To the person interested in the dramatic elements of political life Zimmerman's experience was suggestive. Here was a man who had risen to the highest spheres of state politics in his youth, only to be pulled down into the deepest obscurity a few years later, but who came back to win a personal endorsement never before rivaled in Wisconsin political history.

It recalls one other vote-getting achievement chalked up by the general secretary of state in his earlier career. Back in 1924, running for secretary of state, Zimmerman won the distinction of becoming the first candidate ever to poll a half million votes.

GOP VOTES
The inside wrangling of the Wisconsin Republican leadership continues unabated, with indications that the rivalries recently revealed are becoming even more bitter.

The acute differences between E. A. Bacon, as national committee chairman and Dr. F. L. Gullickson, as dual chairman of the voluntary and statutory state committees, was recently given a public airing, and promptly arrayed most of the minor figures in the party on one side or the other of the argument.

But note these quotations from a man who holds a high office in the Republican organization of Wisconsin, a man who has been closely enough identified with all party activities during the last several years to speak with authority, as an example of the discouragement in some quarters:

MANY GENERALS
"Alex Wiley says he is the nominal head of the Republican party in this state. He feels that the Voluntary committee does not recognize him as such, and as a result is receptive to any move that would benefit his personal position. (The Bacon revolt) Governor Heil says he is the head of the party and he too wants it to recognize him as such. Then, of course, Dr. Gullickson claims the title is due him as a result of his chairmanship."

"I am about ready to withdraw from active participation in politics. . . I am thoroughly disgusted. . . would rather sit back and laugh than to be a party to such idiotic actions."

LOGIC
Although some persons believed that because of its previous strained relations it would have been wiser for the state employees' union to have remained silent while Gov. Heil was making statements assuring public employees that he would introduce a pension system for them, the union has come out with a fulsome publicity release endorsing the governor's plan, which

RELIEF OF CRAMPS

Many people past middle age complain of muscle spasm or cramps in the legs, occurring in the night and waking them from sleep or keeping them from sleeping. In some instances the cramp is so painful that the victim has to get out of bed and massage or exercise the legs for some time to get relief. In a few cases the cramps are so severe that the victim is afraid to go to bed at all, but sits up all night, having discovered that in that position the cramps are less likely to come.

One reader gets relief by covering head with bedclothes and rebreathing the air a few minutes. Another buries face in pillow and rebreathes the air a few minutes. A man 80 years old who had suffered with leg cramps at night and suffered no more cramps. A woman found relief by wearing woolen army socks at night. A man found relief by lying on back with feet one foot apart and turning toes inward (pigeon-toed) as far as possible and holding the feet in that position from 15 to 30 seconds.

Calcium feeding has brought prolonged relief to many sufferers from night cramps. Fifteen grains of calcium gluconate or calcium lactate or calcium chloride or dicalcium phosphate night and morning, for a week or two, best taken after meals. Or a pleasant, non-irritating combination of calcium gluconate (6 grains) and calcium phosphate (9 grains) may be taken in the form of a wafer, in which there is also enough vitamin D to insure assimilation of the calcium.

In fifteen cases of night cramps reported by Drs. H. K. Moss and L. G. Hermann quinine proved uniformly beneficial. The usual dose of quinine for these cases is three grains of quinine sulfate three times a day. The quinine should be taken regularly for several weeks. Sometimes the cramps recur after the quinine is discontinued, but if the regular three grains three times a day routine is resumed the cramps presently cease again.

The excellent remedial effect of quinine in the peculiar "muscle bound" condition known as myotonia, a kind of momentary rigidity or spasm which causes a hesitation or inability to make an intentional movement, especially under stress of excitement, suggested the use of quinine as a relief for night cramps. The usual dose of quinine for control of myotonia is larger, however, say four grains three times a day for an adult, two grains three times a day for a child over six years of age, and this should be taken after meals and continued for a period of several months without interruption.

First Ward Leads Red Cross Drive

Kaukauna—The First ward continues to lead in the drive to raise funds for the Red Cross, with contributions of $91.41, according to Reuben Rosenblatt, chairman of the campaign. The city's quota of $800 has gone over the halfway mark, Rosenblatt said.

Trailing the First ward, of which Mrs. Walter Holt is captain, is the Fourth, $51.41; Third, $39.90; Second, $36.20, and Fifth, $15.85. Ward leaders are Mrs. John N. Cleland, Second; Mrs. Leo Nagan, Third; Mrs. L. F. Nelson, Fourth, and John Coppes, Fifth.

The drive officially ended Saturday, and when final contributions are tabulated Kaukauna is expected to be near its quota. Other members of the roll call committee, in addition to the ward captains, are Edward F. Rennicke, Mrs. Joseph C. McCarty, Anton Berkens, Rev. Leonard Woelfel, the Rev. Michael Drexler, the Rev. L. F. Green, the Rev. John Scheib, Stanley Lizon, William T. Sullivan, L. J. Merlo and C. P. Goetzman.

A motion picture will be made next summer by Bill and Fran Johnson, expert shooting team, in the Johnsons' back yard which is located on Mirror lake. On Friday of this week Carl Berger of Paramount studios, Hollywood, Calif., was in the city to complete arrangements for the movie. Mr. Berger was enroute to Pittsburgh after taking pictures of the Fromm silver fox farm at Hamburg, Wis.

Kaws to Open League Season At W. DePere

Krumm's Team Will Be Favored to Beat Phantoms Friday Night

Kaukauna—Victorious in their first two games against non-conference opponents, Coach Guy Krumm's high school cagers will begin league play Friday night, traveling to West DePere to clash with the Black Phantoms.

The Kaws beat DePere, twice last season, and with a conference contender looming up will be favored to win handily. To date Kaukauna has defeated East Green Bay, 36 to 15, and Waupaca, 33 to 13. The next home game is Friday night, Dec. 13, with New London coming to town.

Scoring records for the two games show Bill Alger, tall center who ranks with the best players the high school has produced, in the van with 38 points, 20 against Green Bay and 18 against Waupaca. His efforts alone were all that were needed to win the two games.

Following Alger are Bill Tessin, 12, Junior Swedberg 10, Willis Rancette 5, Calvin Spice 3, Karl Giordana 1. All but Spice are regulars. Giordana, who has turned in two fine defensive games, usually hits a scoring stride after the first few contests.

Foot Infantry as Necessary As Ever, Johnson Contends

BY HUGH S. JOHNSON

Wilmington, Del.—It is becoming clearer daily from all parts of the country that our military mobilization would have been better if it had been kept more closely in step with our industrial mobilization and been planned more deliberately.

The drafted men now going to camp will serve only a year, unless we get into war or some emergency situation. It is very certain that, within that year, we shall not have nearly enough of the new and complicated weapons of modern war to train many of these recruits and before we do have them, they will be discharged.

About all in which many can expect to become proficient is the foot, bayonet and rifle work of the World War infantry. That is also badly needed. I do not agree with some of our military "experts" that everything the war department has done is wrong and that this "old doughboy stuff is as dead as the Do-Do."

The German armored, motorized and mechanized division operating in close cooperation with airplanes, air infantry and their own tanks worked a revolution in tactics but, alone, they could have won no victories. They lanced out like lightning at key points and communications—sometimes 60 miles ahead of the advancing army—and paralyzed resistance to it. But behind them rolled the first motorized infantry divisions at great speed, and then foot-sloggers and daisy crushers. These latter were necessary first to mop up the untouched defensive points and then occupy the countries. They are as necessary now as they ever were.

The impression to the contrary that is being given to and widely accepted by the country, is very dangerous and very wrong. It is just as important for our army to provide and train old-fashioned foot infantry and motorized infantry as it is to provide motorized, mechanized and armored divisions.

Because we have no completely equipped panzer divisions and they can't be improvised, delay in getting them is critical. But looking back at the unplanned and dilatory action of the rest of the government in appropriating money last summer, I fail to see how the army could have done very much better in its circumstances.

Short Training Period Not Fault of Army

The principal blunder—the one-year training period, which is so ill-fitted to the military problem—is not the army's fault. It probably would have been impossible then to have gotten a longer period enacted. But if these men go out before we get motorized equipment to train the more technical troops, we will have to start all over to man our panzer divisions with too many men who have not yet learned even the rudiments of soldiering.

Another great drawback is that we do not have a large enough nucleus of professional soldiers to do this job. The officers' reserve corps is a good beginning, but these men are mostly amateurs. Germany started out to train with "an army of a hundred thousand sergeants."

We haven't got them. A crusade should be started to bring back to duty all the really veteran and efficient retired and reserve or honorably discharged officers and enlisted men available.

One more great piece of immediate progress could be made. Motorized infantry is little more than foot soldiers who ride in automobiles at 40 miles an hour instead of marching at 2 1/2 miles. The military mind likes to see everything uniform and under complete control. So they like to have army-designed and army-owned truck transportation. But this is a nation on gas-driven wheels. By proper organization and planning we could mass troops anywhere in the United States with lightning speed, and in civilian trucks and cars exclusively. Plans and practice in this direction could go far to solve our army motorization problem. We seem to be doing nothing whatever in that direction.

All Standing Room Taken As Chorus Gives Annual Performance of Messiah

BY MARY AGNES SHELDON

Last evening the annual performance of Handel's Messiah was presented to an audience which filled every seat and took all the available standing room in the Lawrence Memorial chapel. There was a request to refrain from applause but an appreciation of the splendid work of Carl J. Waterman in his direction of the schola cantorum of 200 voices was shown by the attentiveness of the listeners.

The perfect blending of voices in the first chorus, "And the glory of the Lord," was exemplary of the great control which Mr. Waterman has over these 200 voices, for throughout the oratorio there were many times when the quality of the chorus simulated that of an organ. "For unto us a child is born" and "His yoke is easy" particularly evidenced the clarity of parts and fluency of the voices, while "Behold the Lamb of God" showed the minute shadings that can be attained even with so large a group.

Constantly there was an awareness of the deep feeling with which everyone was singing, but the greatest expressive strength was reached several times in the more powerful choruses such as the exultant "Glory to God," the energetic "Lift up your heads, O ye gates," and the "Hallelujah Chorus," which reverberated through the chapel with all of its traditional splendor. As a conclusion to the oratorio Dean Waterman introduced to the Appleton audience "Worthy is the Lamb that was slain" with its difficult, funeral passage which had been mastered by the Schola Cantorum, and the "Amen Chorus," which came as a final flourish.

Excellent Solos
Each of the soloists gave an excellent presentation of the well-known solo parts. Miss Harriet Peterman of Merrill, who appeared for the first time as a Messiah soloist, has a voice quality which not only pleased the audience, but which seemed to suit the soprano solos, especially in the first group of solos following the pastoral symphony. Miss Peterman reached her climax in the well-loved "I know that my Redeemer liveth." Throughout her contralto solos Miss Dorothy Flitcroft of Walworth sang with a calmness and serenity which made the audience aware of her deep feeling. The feeling of sadness in "He was despised" was portrayed excellently. In his tenor solos William Hogue of Shorewood sang with his usual assurance and poise. His great fervor was especially evident in the air, "Behold and see if there be any sorrow," while he gave an excellent display of his decisiveness in the recitative, "He that dwelleth in heaven," which was climaxed in "Thou shalt break them." The Appleton soloist of the evening, Marshall Hubert, appeared with the dignity for which he is known. Throughout his solos, which demanded great technical powers, he sang with great ease and fluency. His singing of "The trumpet shall sound" was a thrilling finale to his solo passages.

The organ accompaniment was very well worked out as a background for the choruses and solos. La Vahn Maesch, organist, should receive special commendation for his fine performance of the Pastoral Symphony. His delicate registration gave a very peaceful orchestral effect to the interlude.

Appleton Girl Shoots Deer on First Expedition

Dorothy Simon Only One in Party to Get Buck as Season Ends

Today's hunting yarn has to do with an inexperienced 15-year-old girl, who never hunted before in her life but still was the only one in a party of five experienced hunters to bring down a deer.

She is Dorothy Simon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Simon, 830 N. Bennett street, and while hunting with her father and his companions near Pence in Florence county, shot her buck, a 2-point, 125-pound animal.

Miss Simon's father said that Dorothy shot a gun for the first time last week, at a target. She is a natural shot, says her father, and she got the deer on her second shot, the only one in the party to bring down a deer.

The deer season closed Saturday and after a slow start developed into one of the best seasons for hunters in years. The state conservation department estimates a much higher kill than last year because of the snow which afforded the hunters a much better chance to track animals which were wounded.

165-Pounder
August C. Koehler, 1908 S. Jefferson street, hunting with Ralph Bongers, 1103 S. Jefferson street, bagged a 5-point deer weighing 165 pounds Thursday near Pembine.

Charles Debenack, Appleton shot a 3-point buck weighing 156 pounds near Three Lakes. His hunting companions were August Witzke and Ed Pitznick, Appleton.

Three Kimberly men hunting in Oneida county returned with bucks. They were Clancy Coates, Lawrence Hoffmeyer and Jack Girard.

Dr. R. J. Winkler, Hilbert, shot a 130-pound deer. He was the only one of 21 Hilbert hunters who returned with a buck.

Two members of the Apple Creek Hunting club shot their bucks near Long Lake. Hugo Caliebe bagged a 6-point deer weighing 150 pounds and Harry Brockman shot a deer with eight points and weighing 200 pounds. Others in the party were Sherman Kapp, Marlin Springstroh, Harvey Springstroh, Ray Springstroh, Thomas Hawk, and Harry, Arthur, Edward, Melvin and William Plamann.

Peter Laux and his son, Bert, Route 1, Menasha, returned Sunday after hunting in Florence county. Each shot a buck, one a 10-pointer and the other with 12 points.

Senate Farm Bloc Likely To Fight Cuts

Economy Program Is Expected to Meet Opposition

Washington, (AP)—President Roosevelt's announced plans for cutting ordinary government outlays to the bone produced rumblings of opposition today from members of the powerful senate farm bloc.

Senators Capper (R-Kans.) from the midwestern wheat belt, and Elender (D-La.), from the cotton belt, announced they would resist efforts to slash government benefit payments to farmers unless farm income improved greatly.

This was the first open threat of opposition since the president announced last week that he would recommend drastic reductions in routine government expenditures because of the multi-billion-dollar additional costs of the defense program. Annual farm appropriations averaging well above the $1,000,000,000 mark for recent years were expected to be one of the chief fields for economy.

Higher Rates Expected
Meanwhile, Senator George (D-Ga.), ranking member of the senate finance committee, gave it as his opinion that the corporation income tax rate might be increased to 30 per cent before the defense program cost is met. Higher individual income tax rates also appeared likely to him.

The present corporation tax rate is 24 per cent where the annual net income is $25,000 or more, with lower rates for firms of smaller incomes.

George emphasized that he was taking a long-range view in discussing tax increases and did not know what specific steps would be taken in the next congress. He said higher corporation income tax rates might do business some harm, but there appeared to be no alternative.

ter, Mrs. Milton Larsen, Green Bay, after a lingering illness.

SNOW LOADING MACHINE FIGHTS STORM—When the sky opens and lets down so much snow that travel on Appleton streets becomes difficult, the snow loading machine shown in operation is one of the most effective means of putting downtown streets back in shape. The picture on College avenue between Oneida street and Appleton street about 10:30 Saturday morning. The machine is about 15 years old; it rattles and roars and breaks down sometimes but street department workmen manage to hold it together long enough to do its work. (Post-Crescent Photo.)

Snow Fighters Have Trouble But Lick First Major Storm

The city's snow fighting equipment, manned by street department workers directed by Gene Harris, street commissioner, had Appleton's first major snowfall pretty well licked this noon.

The department was in trouble only once and that was in the middle of the Saturday morning shopping rush which caught up to the snow loading machine on W. College avenue. The snow loader broke down about 3:30 Saturday morning and it took 14 hours to put it back in operation.

August Laabs, who bets each year that the snow will be gone from the

Wiley Sees Veto For Logan Bill

Expects Measure Will Be Resubmitted to The Next Congress

Washington, (AP)—Senator Wiley (R-Wis.) who voted with successful supporters of the Logan-Walter bill in the senate, reports that congressional circles expect the measure to be cleared by congress but vetoed by President Roosevelt.

He said a statement that the bill, designed to facilitate appeals to the courts from administrative rulings of federal agencies, probably would be resubmitted at the next congress in the same or modified form if it is not enacted this year.

The senator said he voted for the Logan-Walter bill because "these commissions are the creatures of congress and it should prescribe the way they should carry on."

"Unless there is a reasonable provision for review of the commission's findings, it means that the commissioners may become arbiters," he said, "and that is a dangerous thing to have."

"A right of appeal will stop the unrestricted growth of bureaucracy," he said, "protecting the rights of all classes."

"Efficiency, justice and economy are accomplished by providing generally a uniform method of appeal instead of having rules set by each commission and department."

Kaukauna Man Pays Fine for Speeding

Harry Pilkington, Green Bay, arrested by county police at Little Chute, pleaded guilty of jumping an arterial and was fined $5 and costs.

Answer: Approximately 90% of influenza cases respond to Chiropractic. There is nothing of the mysterious in Chiropractic. It is important that the nerves be kept free from pressure in order that they may properly convey the vital energy which leads to function and thus to health. I think this will answer Miss I. L. ## Snowstorm Starts Rush for Stadium Boots, Car Chains

Appleton merchants were scurrying around today replenishing their stock of such items of winter equipment as stadium boots, snow shovels, and car chains.

When winter swooped down on the city and vicinity last week, it found a lot of people unprepared. The natural thing to do, of course, was to go out and buy the trappings with which man copes with snow and ice.

"I understand the whole town was cleaned out of auto chains early Saturday afternoon," one hardware merchant said this morning. "I know we were and understand they couldn't be found in the city."

Plenty of people went into stores and came out with new and shiny snow shovels over their shoulders and put them to use promptly on walks and driveways.

The footwear stores found, too, that business rose as snow fell. One store reported its stock of stadium boots was kept busy, especially Saturday, dealing in pairs of galoshes, rubbers and stadium boots.

There was no fooling about the need for car chains. The city street department had no more advance hope on the weight of the snowfall than anyone else. The department had streets pretty well in hand late yesterday, but during Saturday and most of Sunday residents ran into plenty of trouble trying to wheel their cars about.

Seek Information on Investment Counsellor

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)
Madison—The state department of securities today asked any investor in the Fox river valley who may have turned over securities to William A. Hart, until recently an Appleton investment counsellor, to notify state authorities immediately.

Hart, recently indicted by a federal grand jury in Los Angeles for mail fraud, according to the federal securities and exchange commission, was also under investigation by the state securities department. Director Vernon G. Zeller disclosed.

Zeller said that he had learned that Hart had recently been taken by a federal marshal to face trial on the federal charge in California.

Hart's activities, Zeller said, had been under scrutiny by the state department to determine if he had violated the state securities law.

Officials Go To Washington To Get Zuehlke

Former Fremont Man Charged With Arson Will Be Extradited

Waupaca—District Attorney Paul E. Roman and Sheriff Duncan R. Campbell were to leave Madison, where they went to get permission of Governor Heil to extradite Raymond C. Zuehlke, 33, from Washington, D. C., for Washington this afternoon to return Zuehlke to face an arson charge. The officials were to be accompanied by Deputy State Fire Marshal W. E. Finnegan who was to meet them at Milwaukee.

Zuehlke, formerly of Fremont and now a government clerk, is charged with setting fire to the home of his brother, Marilyn, in Fremont. Their mother, Mrs. Mary Zuehlke, has resided at the home for a number of years.

The home was damaged by fire and an explosion the night of Nov. 23. Raymond Zuehlke, it is charged, made an airplane-bus-taxi trip from Washington and set fire to the building. He secured six gallons of gasoline in gallon cans at Menasha and paid a taxi driver $35 to take him to Fremont, it is charged. Zuehlke failed to meet the taxi driver later and took a bus to Chicago where he boarded a plane and returned to Washington.

A man boarded a Greyhound bus on the night of the fire and acted in a suspicious manner, according to Finnegan. The man was described as tall, dark and slender. Another passenger in the bus noticed that when the man entered, he had a mustache and that later he appeared as clean shaven. The man also had a burn or bruise on his face.

According to Roman, Washington authorities told him Zuehlke was "all patched up and looked like he had been in an explosion." Mrs. Zuehlke, who had been visiting her son, left Washington on the day of the fire.

Canadian Exhibitors Carry Off Honors in Grain Exhibits

Chicago — (P) — Charles N. Fischer, of Shelbyville, Ind., was crowned "corn king" of the international livestock exposition today after the judges decided that his sample of Johnson county white was more uniform in appearance than any of the yellow grain.

Chicago — (P) — Canadian exhibitors including a "teen-age farm youth" who captured the title of "king" today held a commanding lead at the forty-first annual livestock exposition in championship awards of the North American continent in agricultural crops.

The 1940 oats "king" is Paul Francis Pawlowski, of Vilna, Alberta, one of seven motherless children, who was not present to receive the award. Judges named his sample of the Victory variety of oats the best on exhibit at the grain and hay show being held in conjunction with the exposition. Neighbors of the Pawlowski family at Vilna said Paul was "16 or 17" years old and that he was competing for the first time in "big time" agricultural exhibitions.

The alfalfa grand championship award was won by Hugh Stewart of Weirsdale, Saskatchewan, while the third Canadian grand championship was taken by Hugh Jeffrey, Whitby, Ontario, who successfully defended his title as soy bean champion.

D. L. Scott of City View, Ontario, was named reserve champion in oats. Reserve soybean champion was Hirsch Bros. of Orono, Ill., who won the same title last year, while Gust Palm of Baudette, Minn., was reserve champion alfalfa grower.

Pawlowski's championship sample weighed 49.9 pounds a bushel, while Scott's runnerup sample scaled 45.1 pounds.

Exposition officials said the wheat and corn "kings" might be selected today, but the judges said many samples remained to be considered before prize-winners could be selected.

E. W. Doubt of Hanna City, Ill., was named reserve corn champion. He won with a sample of yellow hybrid designated the "DDX1" variety.

This was the seventh consecutive year in which the corn crown went to an Indiana exhibitor.

Clarence Nutt, of Glen Haven, Wis., won first honors in yellow corn, region 2. H. J. Metcalf & Son, also of Glen Haven, placed third.

Weygand May Head Revolt

chief of the French armies when they fell to Germany, is waiting for the Vichy government to commit itself to some further scheme for "collaboration" with the axis powers before he openly repudiates it. In this, these observers point out, Vice Premier Pierre Laval, who has been conducting "collaboration" negotiations with Berlin, may unconsciously be playing Weygand's game.

General Weygand's adherence to the "Free French" cause, however, would create a delicate problem in London. As a much older man with a name which still carries immense prestige in France, he presumably would expect to lead the movement, causing De Gaulle, who was little known in France before the war, to take a subordinate post in the campaign which he himself created after the armistice.

In fact, De Gaulle has no high opinion of the veteran Weygand's capabilities. "There is nothing to hope for from men who signed an armistice," he told an interviewer recently. "These men are impotent to rebel against Hitler."

If Weygand brought North Africa to Britain's aid, the whole strategic position in the Mediterranean and the middle east would be reversed, military spokesmen say.

General Sir Archibald P. Wavell, British commander in the middle east, faced a hazardous situation through the defection of French colonial armies in June when France dropped out of the war.

Instead of having an allied army outnumbering the Italians, he suddenly found himself outnumbered by them. Although reinforcements were rushed from Britain, Australia, New Zealand and India, he had to allow the Italians to advance in the western desert across the Egyptian frontier.

Heads Large Army Faced with the Italian threat, British Somaliland had to be evacuated.

But Weygand would bring to General Wavell a well-equipped, partly-mechanized army of upwards of 500,000 men, composed of native troops, the French Foreign Legion and others.

That army could press down from the heights of Tunis eastward into Italian Libya.

Marshal Rudolfo Graziani's Italian army could thus be squeezed in a British-French pincer, say military commentators.

The fact that the axis is fully aware of the danger of some change in North Africa's position is evidenced by reports of activity by German agents in Morocco and Italy in Tunis.

Draft Questionnaire Held Up Because of Expected Dependent

Greenville, S. C. — (P) — A young married man who has just received a questionnaire from his draft board is in a quandary.

He confided to board members that he was expecting an heir at his house momentarily and would like to wait the event before returning the questionnaire. If not, he would be forced to leave out a dependent, because to take credit for an additional member of the family before it arrived was too risky.

The board clerk could find no rules to fit the case.

Rationing List Being Extended by Italians

Rome — (P) — Spaghetti, flour and rice were added to Italy's list of rationed food products effective today.

Consumers will be permitted to buy a total of two kilograms (about four and a half pounds) of these products monthly.

Restaurants were forbidden to serve spaghetti or rice Tuesdays and Saturdays. Other days these dishes may be served only at one meal.

By the way, the board clerk could find no rules to fit the case.

Kennedy Quits As Ambassador

Europe, Laurence A. Steinhardt in Soviet Russia and Alexander Weddell in Spain.

Kennedy's resignation came as a surprise for it was preceded by a number of such reports which the state department refused to confirm.

That choice of a successor might be delayed for some time was indicated by Kennedy's statement that Mr. Roosevelt was not yet prepared to make a decision and by Mr. Roosevelt's plans for an extended trip away from the capital.

As for Kennedy's future, the retiring ambassador spoke only in general terms in his statement announcing the resignation.

"My plan is, after a short holiday," he said, "to devote my efforts to what seems to me the greatest cause in the world today, and means, if successful, the preservation of the American form of democracy. That cause is to help the president keep the United States out of war."

Milwaukee — (P) — John Cudahy, who resigned as United States ambassador to Belgium last week, said yesterday he was retiring from public life to write the "inside story" of the "conspiracies leading to the downfall of Poland."

"I consider my material of a very revealing nature," Cudahy said, "and the nature of these revelations necessitate my retirement from public life."

Cudahy was ambassador to Poland and minister to Elie before he went to Brussels as ambassador to Belgium.

One of Hilton Twins Treated for Appendicitis

Tomah — (P) — Dr. T. J. Sheehy said yesterday that Daisy Hilton, unmarried member of the only set of Siamese twins in America, was recovering from an attack of appendicitis but must remain in Tomah "about a week."

Daisy and her sister, Violet, were confined to a local hotel room when Daisy became ill last Thursday night.

Born in Texas, the Hilton sisters have appeared in vaudeville since they were three years old. They are now 32.

Violet has been married since 1938 to James Moore of San Antonio, Tex. Moore is not with the sisters on their present tour.

Alleged Gambling Den Is Raided at Madison

Madison — (P) — Acting on a "tip" from Scott H. Goodnight, dean of men at the University of Wisconsin, police raided an alleged gambling establishment in an apartment house in the university section early Sunday. A man alleged to be the operator was arrested. Goodnight was reported to have told authorities he had information students were gambling at the place.

Struggle Over Formula for Future Taxing and Spending

BY MORGAN M. BEATTY

Washington — (P) — The curtain comes down on the 1940 financial show with the national income, federal expenses and tax receipts all sprinting upward on the economic charts.

And right at this point, the president sits down with the leaders of congress to figure out what to do about it.

As usual in emergencies, expenses will shoot off the graphs first. Come June 30, next, and we'll probably be spending at the rate of $13,000,000,000 a year, the fastest peacetime rate in the nation's history.

The national income and the national tax receipts those paralleling twins of the economic charts, are making a race of it, too. The latest commerce department estimates boost the probable national income of American citizens for 1940 up to $74,000,000,000 our greatest since 1929.

All of which adds up to a shorter or longer period of prosperity, as both the Wall street and Washington economists seem to agree. But that doesn't say where we're going financially.

Frankly, there's no telling. Even the president's financial advisers and the experts in the congressional committees are handicapped by the speed of our spending, and the effect it will have on our national economy in the next year and a half — the period which the budget estimates must cover. The difficulty is finding the formula for future taxing and spending.

Whatever formula is proposed to congress by the president is going to be based — as it must be — on nothing better than fairly scientific guesses, seasoned with ample measures of political psychology.

The guessers know that national income of citizens and federal tax receipts have a habit of marching up and down the economic charts together. When income goes up, tax receipts follow along a year later. It's more of the same when income goes down.

The question is, how much will the national income be stimulated by the increased spending. Some of the slide rule experts say it'll be $80,000,000,000 in 1941. A Wall street symposium says $85,000,000,000. One expert I know says they're pessimistic. He thinks it'll be $80,000,000,000. In any event, tax receipts will march upward at about the same pace, unless Congress raises taxes. My expert tells me he thinks the tax receipts at present rates would reach the $10,000,000,000 mark in 1941, or better.

That won't be enough to catch up with our spending. Besides, some persons say the country's in the mood to accept new taxes as the inevitable consequence of the defense program.

How much should taxes be increased, when nobody knows what the national income level will be for sure. And should these be taxes that fall evenly on rich and poor alike, such as taxes on soft drinks? Or should the income groups earning from, say $5,000 a year to $100,000 and up a year, take the heaviest tax rap?

That's the president's problem, and the experts'. After they make their guesses, congress will have its say.

But whatever the solution of the budget problem of 1940, 1941, and 1942, the defense program may do one thing. It may give a full-fledged whirl to those spending theories everybody argues about.

To those economists who argue generally that increased federal spending and borrowing are the basic requirements for prosperity and a balanced budget, the defense spending is a godsend.

"At last," say they, "our theories might have a chance to prove themselves."

The economists who oppose federal spending, knowing defense spending is inevitable, are watching results of the large arms program just as closely.

'Flash Bomb' Released To British Aviators

Toronto — (P) — A recently-developed "flash bomb" technique, useful for night aerial photography, has been released to Great Britain by the United States Air corps.

Dr. Walter Clark, camera research expert of Rochester, N. Y., said here in a weekend address. He said the invention was especially useful since new defense measures of warning nations had made daylight reconnaissance impracticable.

Willkie Should Head GOP Party, Lawrence Says

Suggests Defeated Presidential Nominee Be Drafted for Post

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington.—The future plans of Wendell Willkie and the desire of the millions who voted for him that he continue to exercise leadership in their behalf constitutes a major political question notwithstanding the fact that almost a month has elapsed since the election. It is not just a personal affair—a loyalty to one man. It represents an indefinable urge toward something constructive in American politics which was first apparent when tradition was swept aside and Wendell Willkie was nominated and later before voted the Republican ticket, abandoned their own traditions of a lifetime to join his cause.

About a week ago in "The United States News" this correspondent wrote an editorial suggesting that Mr. Willkie brush aside tradition and precedent himself by accepting the chairmanship of the Republican National committee. The letter of comment which have since been received are symptomatic of what might well be called a revolution inside the Republican as well as inside the Democratic parties. The people are not going to be content to let the so-called party organization of the Republican party express what was and still is in the minds of the Willkie voters. They still feel—at least many of them say so—a certain disappointment with the record of the Republicans in congress in the last two years and insist that until there is harmony between the Republicans inside and outside of congress there is little accomplished toward Republican effectiveness as an opposition party.

True Leader
To the argument that the chairmanship of the Republican National committee has never been anything but an organization management in the past without real relationship to party leadership, the answer, that a true leader in the past would make the job mean leadership in a broader sense for party principles and party activity. It would not be necessary for the new chairman to operate the machinery of the party or to engage in the detailed work which is necessary to the proper building of a party mechanism. An executive director could do that work, and it has been suggested that David Ingalls, of Cleveland, who was Senator Taft's manager at the last national convention would be the ideal selection for that position.

What is needed more than ever before is a leader in the chairmanship of the party who could call conferences between senate and house Republicans, see to it that there was full and free discussion on party positions to be assumed on pending legislation and establish some sense of responsibility on the part of the Republicans for a national rather than a local viewpoint.

Party Strategy
Again and again party strategy in congress has been the sum total of many local viewpoints. Little thought has been given to the party's prestige in a national sense. Thus the Republican party voted almost solidly in the house last year against the repeal of the arms embargo and this record was a powerful factor in turning thousands of independent voters from the Willkie standard for they said he might be pro-ally himself, but he would have behind him a congress of Republican isolationists.

A defeated party nominee for the presidency is called a titular leader and unfortunately he exercises little influence. But if he became chairman of the national committee his views would command respect and he at least would be able to bring about party conferences in the common interest of the party members to which persons outside of congress might be brought for the expression of their concepts of public policy.

Mr. Willkie can be an influential factor in the making of public opinion if he remains on the sidelines and makes an occasional speech, but he will find himself merely a spectator and not a participant as party policy is made by the Republicans in congress in the same hit or miss fashion that has been so characteristic of the minority party in the past when the Democrats as well as the Republicans have been out of power.

There is another task which Mr. Willkie cannot hope to accomplish if he takes a job in business and retires to private life between elections. It is the retention on the opposition side of the millions who came from the Democratic party and who do not wish to become members of the Republican party at all. These millions, so many of whom formed or joined the Willkie clubs, may find an opportunity to continue under what may be called the Thomas Jefferson clubs; but this is only part of the problem. How are the millions in the south who found themselves compelled to vote the Democratic ticket because they do not like the label Republican going to be persuaded to join the millions who voted for the Willkie cause?

If the name of the Republican party is to be changed to Constitution party or some other name so as to enable the 2-party system to be extended to the south, then the Republican national organization must make such a move because it controls the party machinery and the label that shall be used.

There are many important problems to be solved if the 22,000,000 voters are to augment their numbers and win a national election. But most important is to get a leader and organizer. Wendell Willkie is hesitant to accept the chairmanship of the Republican National committee, in fact he is reported to be inclined against it. It seems, therefore, that the rank and file of the Republican party will have to express themselves on the subject if he is to be drafted and if the much talked of opposition is to be mobilized effectively between elections.

Today the Institute's most recent study of the public attitude on this issue shows that 59 per cent of those with opinions on the question think the United States will "go in" to the war sometime before its "over," while 41 per cent think this country will stay out.

Barly two months ago 87 per cent thought America would go in eventually—or eight points more than think so today. One possible factor in this shift of thinking is the relative success the British have had in staving off an invasion of Britain. As recent Institute studies show, there has also been an increase since September in the number who think Britain will win the war.

Campaign pledges by both President Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie that this country would not go to war unless attacked are also probable factors. The experts have different theories as to America's chances of staying out of the war, of course. The purpose of the Institute's studies is to keep a continuous check on the way events, expert opinion and other influences affect John Citizen himself.

"Do you think," the Institute asked, "the United States will go into the war in Europe sometime before it is over, or do you think we will stay out of the war?" The replies of those with opinions were: Think U. S. Will Go In 50% Think U. S. Will Stay Out 41%

Many Qualified Answers
The Institute found many voters who wished to attach qualifications to their beliefs. About a quarter of those who thought the United States would enter the war added "if the war lasts long enough" or "if England can't win without us."

As might be expected, opinion on the question has been volatile throughout the war. In the past, British setbacks and defeats have caused a rise in the feeling America will enter the war. British successes in staving off the Germans and Italians, on the other hand, have brought increased confidence America can stay out. The trend of opinion in six comparable surveys has been:

Think U. S. Will Go In	Think U. S. Will Stay Out
October, 1939 (Beginning of the War)	46% 54%
February, 1940 (War in Brief 'Quiet' Phase)	32 68
May, 1940 (After Battle of Norway)	62 38
June, 1940 (During Fall of France)	65 35
September, 1940 (During Blitz on London)	67 33
Today	59 41

Throughout the war in Europe, there has been widespread speculation about the attitudes and convictions of various "nationality groups" in America. Special interest has attached to the views of German-Americans and Italo-Americans. In today's studies a special analysis shows that first and second generation German-Americans look at the situation much as the whole public does—55 per cent of them said they expected the United States would enter the war, often adding the qualification, "if it is a long war."

Italo-Americans in the survey were 56 per cent of the opinion the United States would stay out, on the other hand. Which Side Will Win? In a study reported earlier this week the Institute reported that 63 voters in every hundred thought England would win, while only 7 thought Germany and Italy would win, and the remaining 30 were undecided.

Analysis of the various major nationality groups on this question yields equally interesting results. As might be expected, first and second generation Americans of British origin were overwhelming of the opinion Great Britain would win. The same opinion was shared by those of Canadian, Scandinavian and—interestingly enough—Irish origin. But the real surprise in the study came in the answers of first and second generation German-Americans and Italo-Americans. While a considerable number in these two groups said they were undecided, a majority of those with opinions in each case said they thought Britain would come out on top.

Note Decline in Belief U.S. Will Enter War

BY DR. GEORGE GALLUP, Director American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J.—The American public's apprehension that the United States may be drawn into the war in Europe has declined noticeably since Adolf Hitler's air attack on England last September.

Since the war began, the Institute's studies of public opinion in all parts of the United States show that, whereas the great majority have been opposed to America entering the European conflict, nevertheless majorities have often felt that U. S. entrance was likely or inevitable.

Today the Institute's most recent study of the public attitude on this issue shows that 59 per cent of those with opinions on the question think the United States will "go in" to the war sometime before its "over," while 41 per cent think this country will stay out.

Chamber Seeking Highway 41 Route Through Appleton

Citing the need for a well-marked route for Highway 41 traffic through the city of Appleton, members of the board of directors of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce named a committee Friday to study the matter and prepare a report.

The directors recommended that traffic coming from the north should be given a clear route into the northwest part of the city and emerging at the southeastern city limits. Members of the committee are Robert O. Schmidt, George Buth, and Joseph Koffend.

The board voted to send C. E. Saecker, chamber president, William Van Dyck, state counselor, Kenneth Corbett, secretary, and the chairman of the legislative committee yet to be appointed to a meeting of Wisconsin Chamber of Commerce directors and the Wisconsin Association of Commercial Organizations Monday, Dec. 9, at Madison.

Plans for the football banquet for Lawrence college and Appleton High school squads Wednesday night, Dec. 4, were discussed at the meeting.

HOW TO GET A $100 LOAN IN 24 HOURS

Loans without endorsers or guarantors—No credit questions asked of friends or relatives—Monthly payments to fit your income. Quick, friendly service

Would you like to get a cash loan without having to ask friends or relatives for a favor? At Household Finance you can apply for $20 to $300—without endorsers or guarantors—if you can make small monthly payments on your loan. We require no stocks or bonds, no wage or salary assignment. You borrow on your own signature (no friends need sign).

Choose your own payment plan
See, in the table below, how you may repay your loan in convenient monthly installments which fit your own income. You may repay in small installments spread over 20 months. Or you may repay sooner to reduce the charges.

Suppose that you need a $100 loan. You find this amount in the first column of the table. Then read across picking out the monthly payment which you wish to make. You will see, for instance, that monthly installments of $9.77 each will repay a $100 loan in full in 12 months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.43 a month for 20 months will also repay a $100 loan.

Same rate to everyone

Installments in the table cover everything. They include charges at the rate of 24% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100, 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100 but not exceeding $200, and 1% per month on any remainder. Household has only one rate—the same to everyone, whether new customer or former borrower.

No one else need know

When you borrow at Household, there is no need to ask friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. (Loans are made on furniture, car or note.) We do not ask friends or relatives about your credit. If you should be faced with sickness or unemployment while paying on a loan, Household will show you every consideration. Last year we foreclosed on only one chattel mortgage for each 20,000 loans—an action taken then only as protection against fraud.

If a loan will help you, you are urged to look at the table again. Then phone or visit us for further information. You'll be under no obligation to borrow.

Appleton High Defeats Neenah By 22-14 Score

Terrors Make Rockets Play Ball Their Way And Romp to Victory

BY GORDON MCINTYRE

Appleton High school cagers made Neenah High school play-ball their way Saturday night here at the senior high gymnasium and defeated the Red Rockets, 22 to 14.

For several years in the past Neenah has boasted one or more young giants on its cage squads who enabled the Rockets to get the ball off the bounding board, to control it most of the time and play basketball Neenah style. Now Neenah style is the fast break, fire department basketball, and at such Appleton is about as adept as a cow at walling.

Saturday night Neenah didn't have its tall lads and Appleton got the ball much of the time, at least enough to dominate offensive play and that consists of deliberately maneuvering around until an opening presents itself. Even when Neenah garnered the ball, Appleton players were big enough to tie up the Rockets or at least slow them down until the Appleton defense got back into position.

Appleton presented a new lineup for the battle. Cooper was moved from center to forward and Burton to center. DeLong was replaced at guard by Chuck Kliefoth and his running mate was Bartman. Bowers was the other forward. The combination worked well enough as the changes didn't amount to an awful lot for the boys are about even in ability. Kliefoth's return was a little earlier than first reports and his wrist isn't any too strong. It failed him on a couple one-handed tries.

Neenah Leads 6 to 4

Appleton scored the first point of the game but Neenah got the first goal. Then Bartman pushed in a left-handed toss to put the Terrors in front. Another point for Appleton on a free throw followed but Neenah tied the score with a fast break with B. Kettering tallying. Free throws gave Neenah two more points and it held a 6 to 4 lead at the quarter.

A long goal by B. Kettering gave Neenah an 8 to 4 lead but DeLong cut in fast and took a pass from Burton to score for Appleton. Neenah got another gift shot and then the Terrors started to click. Bowers tossed a long shot, Burton took a pass from a mate and dropped it through the hoop and then Bowers sank another goal after it appeared he had thrown the ball away trying to pass. It came bounding back at him and he turned and scored. The spurt gave Appleton a 12-9 lead at the half.

Bartman's field goal gave Appleton two more points as the third quarter opened. B. Kettering's long shot put Neenah back in the running and the third period ended 5-11 for Appleton.

Neenah hung up two free throws as the final eight minutes got underway. Burton's field goal and free throw on the same play and Bartman's gift gave Appleton a 19-13 margin. Bowers took a pass from DeLong and dropped it to make the count 21 to 13. Thereafter the teams battled up and down the floor with fouls the only accomplishments. Each squad added a free throw before the final horn.

Weyauwega—Weyauwega won its second straight basketball game Friday night by defeating Omro High school by the score of 26 to 20. "Stretch" Grancoritz, Indian center, paced the attack by scoring 11 points while both Ken Prentice, veteran guard, and Howard Holcomb, forward, played fine games for the home team. Birkholz and Weingarten were Omro's best bets.

Both teams started slowly in the first quarter with Weyauwega holding a meagre 5 to 3 edge when the whistle blew. The Indians forged ahead, 15 to 9, at the half, however, held a 17 to 12 advantage at the end of three quarters and won, 26 to 20. ## Shawano Loses to Wausau as Final Rally Falls Short

Wausau—A desperate Shawano rally fell just short of the mark in the closing minutes of a game at Wausau Saturday night, enabling the Lumberjacks to eke out a 32 to 30 victory over the Indians after a game that was nip-and-tuck all the way.

The visiting Indians, outsized but not outplayed, went into the last quarter trailing by one point but Wausau assumed a commanding lead during the quarter. The Diltsmen worked the count back almost to a tie but lost when the referee ruled the tying field goal illegal because a man had been inside the ring on a jump ball with less than one minute to play.

The Indians led at the quarter and half by one point, with the count 16 to 15 at halftime. The lead changed several times. At the end of the third frame the Lumberjacks had assumed the lead, and outscored the Indians in the final to pick up another point.

Billy Reed was again high scorer for the game, getting six field goals and two gift shots for 14 points, with Jim Anderson six points behind him. For Wausau, Hirsch made 11 points and Mealy, a forward, 10.

Neenah led at the half, 6 to 4. Meyer sparked Neenah with six points.

"Player of Year" Trophy to Harmon

Chicago—(AP)—Another honor came to Michigan's Tom Harmon today—with his one-time gridiron hero making its presentation.

Harmon was to receive the "player of the year" trophy from the Wailing Wall Luncheon club, an alumni group which met throughout the football campaign and dined on the season's standout stars.

Harmon was to receive the award from Jay Berwanger, last of a long list of football greats turned out at the University of Chicago before that school abandoned the sport a year ago.

Berwanger, an all-America back at Chicago in 1935, was Harmon's idol when the Gary, Ind., boy was in high school. When Harmon came out for football as a sophomore at Michigan, he was assigned No. 49, but insisted that he be given a number "one notch below Berwangers". Harmon got that number—98—just a notch below the 99 that Berwanger carried so brilliantly for three years at Stagg field.

Alf Bauman, Northwestern's all-conference tackle, was named by the Wailing Wall as "lineman of the year."

Milwaukee Frowns On Short-Skirted Drum Majorettes

Milwaukee—(AP)—Short-skirted, bare-kneed drum majorettes and baton-twirlers who prance in front of high school bands have been banned by the Milwaukee High School athletic council.

"We felt inhuman to let the girls go out there on the field on cold days," George J. Balzer, principal of Washington High school, explained.

"They took the play away from the bands," added Harry A. Weingarten. Custer High school principal. "The poor kids in the band work hard on formations and nobody watches them."

Lawrence Cagers Will Get Hardest Test From Oshkosh

Lawrence college basketball team, whose activities to date have featured wins over the freshmen and the alumni, will step into faster company tonight at Oshkosh State Teachers college. The game will start at 8 o'clock.

Whereas the game originally may have been considered another warmup contest, indications now are that it probably will be as tough a contest as any on the conference schedule. The latter conclusion was drawn when Oshkosh went wild in the second half of a game last week and registered a 61 to 30 victory over the Milwaukee University Extension team. The first half was a polite basketball game but in the second Oshkosh ran the Extension squad out of the gym.

Ten men appeared in the Oshkosh lineup and each got at least one goal. Bud Spear, a forward, set the pace with six baskets and a free throw while Murray Meyer, formerly of Marion, got four field goals. Three baskets each went to Ratzburg and James, guards.

Coach Art Denney of Lawrence has one of his tallest squad and frankly hopes that this year will see the Vikings on the giving end instead of receiving. He also has enough talent so that come the last ten minutes of the game, he'll have replacements worth commenting on instead of a hope and a prayer to replace some regular who has left on personals or who has started to tire.

May Start Bob Morris
So far Denney has been inclined to work his men in two squads of five each with a couple odd players being used as fill-ins. Indications are he will start Bob Morris and Don Fredrickson as forwards. Bill Crosssett as center, and Jarvis Lingle and Jim Fieweger as guards.

Morris is an Appleton man playing his first year of varsity ball. He usually has performed at guard but can be adapted to almost any position and should be a great running mate for Don Fredrickson, a junior from whom things are expected after last year's great season.

Bill Crosssett, sophomore center, is big and rugged yet fast. He should fill a position in which Lawrence has been woefully weak for many seasons. He also has the stamina to play a full game with a minimum of relief.

In Jarvis Lingle and Jim Fieweger the latter of Kimberly and a sophomore, Denney has two husky fellows who'll be hard to move out of the way on rebounds, who dribble well, have speed and can shoot. The second combination shows Phil Knell and Phil Harvey at the forwards, Art Schade, Appleton, at center, Jim Slauson and Warren Buesing, Appleton, at the guards. The quintet also has speed, shooting ability and is rugged. It is good enough that Denney can start it if necessary and can insert any one of the men into the first combination without detracting from the strength.

The Nebraska team that Jones is now taking west is a precision outfit, well studied with colorful players.

There are 13 seniors on the team—13 seniors who have known plenty of bad days. Three years ago as sophomores they played on a squad that lost five games.

"The game at Pasadena will be a fine climax to a fine season of football played by a fine bunch of boys," Major Jones said. He indicated the team would not suit up for practice for two weeks.

Menasha, Seymour Get Cage Tourneys

Marinette—(AP)—The Wisconsin interscholastic athletic association announced today the plan used in 1940, which provides for the coronation of only one state champion, would be followed in conducting the 1941 state high school basketball tournaments.

The plan calls for district meets for the smaller schools, followed by regional meets and the state tournament. The district meets will be staged Feb. 26, 27, 28 and March 1; the regional meets March 5, 6, 7 and 8 and the state tournament at the University of Wisconsin field house in Madison March 12, 13, 14, and 15.

Thirty-two district meets will be staged for schools with enrollments of 215 and less. Sixteen regional meets will be held to which the 32 district winners will be admitted, two to each meet, and to which high schools with enrollments of more than 215 will be admitted on the basis of their records. In other words, each regional meet will be composed of district winners and six other schools. The teams for tournaments will be selected from those in the district and region complying with tournament regulations and which present the best records.

The association announced district meets would be held at Ashland, Athens, Baldwin, Bruce, Cambridge, Cameron, Casco, Cashton, Cobb, Coleman, Cuba City, Eau Claire, Green Lake, Iola, Juneau, Loyal, Mauston, Milwaukee, Mondovi, Muscoda, New Glarus, North Fond du Lac, Plainfield Prairie du Sac, Seymour, Slinger, Three Lakes, Viola, Walworth, Westboro, Whitehall and Wittenberg.

Regional tournaments would be held, it was announced, at Antigo, Ashland, Dodgeville, Eau Claire, Kewaunee, Lake Mills, Marinette, Menasha, Monroe, Portage, St. Croix Falls (with sub regional meets there), South Milwaukee, Spooner, Stevens Point, Tomah and Waupun.

Game next Sunday: Chicago Bears at Washington for National league championship.

BY EARL HILLIGAN
Chicago—The Chicago Bears, with one of the most powerful running attacks in the game, and the Washington Redskins, dangerous both around and in the air, will battle it out at Washington next Sunday for the National professional football championship.

The Bears clinched the western division championship and the Redskins won the eastern sectional title as the regular season closed yesterday. The Bears whipped the Chicago Cardinals, 31 to 22, and Washington turned back Philadelphia's Eagles 13 to 6.

Next Sunday's big battle will mark the first time since 1937 that the Bears and Washington have been in the final playoff. It was in 1937 that Washington, with Sammy Baugh giving a remarkable passing performance, defeated the Bears for the championship.

Little Davey O'Brien of the Eagles bowed out magnificently in yesterday's game. He completed 33 passes out of 60 tries for a new record. That bettered the previous mark of 23, set by Baugh this season. O'Brien plans to go to work for the Federal Bureau of Investigation within a few days.

Win Nine, Lose Two
Two other players also set marks in this duel, which gave Washington a final standing of nine wins and two defeats. Don Looney, Eagle end, caught 4 passes to break the old mark of 3 for a single game.

Baugh turned in a record smashing punt, 85 yards from the line of scrimmage, to shatter Parker Hall's mark of 80.

Washington won on second and third period touchdowns by Wilbur Moore and Dick Todd. O'Brien's pass to Frank Emmons gave the losers their touchdown.

Like O'Brien, the Cardinals also were brilliant in defeat. After the Bears had scored all of their points in a superb first-half offensive, the Cardinals roared back to count all of their points in the last quarter. It seemed they had a chance to pull the game out of the fire, but with three minutes to go a Bear pass interception wrecked the Cardinal hopes. The victory gave the Bears eight wins against three defeats for the regular season schedule.

A victory for the Green Bay Packers over Cleveland, combined with a defeat of the Bears by the Cardinals, would have forced a playoff for the western section title. But the Packers could do no better than tie the Rams at 13-13, being forced to score 10 points in the final period to gain the deadlock.

The Brooklyn Dodgers whipped the New York Giants 14 to 6. The win gave the Dodgers runner-up honors in the league's eastern section.

Packers are Tied
Cleveland—It's all over until next year for the Green Bay Packers, 1939 champions of the National Professional Football league.

The Packers wound up in second place in the league's western division yesterday as the Chicago Bears took top honors with a victory over the Chicago Cardinals.

Meanwhile, the Wisconsin team was hard pressed to earn a 13-13 tie with the Cleveland Rams. A ten point spurt in the final minutes erased the Rams' 13-3 lead.

Don Hutson, veteran Green Bay end, won the individual scoring title of the league with a touchdown and an extra point late in the fourth quarter. The former Alabama star scored seven touchdowns and added 15 extra points during the season for a total of 57 points, one more than Johnny Drake, Cleveland fullback, who tallied nine touchdowns and two extra points for 58.

Drake took a brief lead in the scoring race by scoring a touchdown just before the half ended, but missed his try for the extra point. Hutson scored his touchdown after taking an 11-yard pass from Harold Van Every to tie up the scoring honors, and then went ahead on a perfect placement.

Hinkle Boots Two
Clark Hinkle, booted two field goals, the first from the 45 yard line in the opening minutes of the game, and the second from the 17 yard line in the fourth quarter.

Cleveland hammered at the Green Bay goal line during most of the first half, but it was not until a minute before intermission that

GUIDING LIGHTS

By Buell Patterson
It is high time that someone paid tribute to the guides of this country who make life so simple and pleasurable for so many during the hunting and fishing seasons. Without the long-suffering assistance of guides many would do without when it comes to catching fish or getting game or birds.

The guides really are long-suffering because most of them are experts at their line. They are excellent fishermen who can hit a dime with a plug or fly and are mostly good shots with shotgun or rifle. What they go through in seeing some of the tenderest put on their acts is only fragment for the imagination.

When a guide sees an angler come out all dolled-up with a tackle box big enough for a trunk, I often wonder what he thinks. I do know of one guide, who exasperated by the boasting of one of his clients who had caught a small muskellunge, went out and caught a forty-two pounder with an old cane pole and a minnow. The exasperated guide was, of course, very lucky, but he did come through and his fish was the largest taken in the particular lake, Twin Lake near Phelps, Wis., last season.

Sometimes a critical city feller will wonder why a guide wears a big felt hat during the hot weather. That hat is worn so that a stray hook or two won't put the guide's eyes or neck an ear. Many a guide has been scarred for life by an inexperienced angler.

Guides get dumped into chilly water because some heavy-seated sportsman rocks the boat. They have ten times knocked down by the lumbering antics of other clumsy fellows. They get burned, bumped and bruised, all in the course of their duties. I will bet that during their hot stove season they tell tales which would make the ears of many a man burn if he could hear them.

In deer season I have seen guides tramp for miles to drive a deer near to one of their charges, only to have the hunter miss the deer, the boat and everything else that he could possibly miss. So, I say hats off to the guides. They give us many fine hours in the open and suffer along with us at our mistakes, probably suffer more than we do. A bit of appreciation for the men who make fishermen and hunters out of the most novice is overdue.

Drake scored from the five. Vic Spadaccini converted.

Parker Hall tossed a pass to Corrdill for the second touchdown, but Drake's attempt for the extra point was low.

Green Bay's marked superiority in the late period gave the visitors a 208 to 80 edge in yards gained rushing. In passing the Packers shaded the Rams 156 to 148 yards. Green Bay led in first downs, 18 to 10.

Texas A. and M. Only Casualty in Campaign Wind-Up

New York—Fourteen college football teams completed their 1940 seasons, excluding bowl games to be played on New Year's day, 1941, as well as those played last New Year's, without a defeat or a tie to mar their records.

Headed by Boston college and Tennessee, which will meet in the Sugar Bowl game at New Orleans, they won from six to ten games each and compiled impressive scoring and defensive records. None is scheduled to take part in any of the regular-season games listed between now and Jan. 1.

There was only one casualty in the final full week of the gridiron campaign—Texas A. and M., which succumbed 7-0 to Texas last Thursday after having won eight in a row. Six of the others won their final games during the past week while the rest had previously completed their seasons.

At the top of the list, Boston college and Tennessee won 10 games apiece, a total equalled only by Springfield (Mo.) Teachers. The Eagles scored 320 points, one more than Tennessee's Volunteers.

Springfield Teachers and La Crosse (Wis.) Teachers came out about even in the defensive showings of the group. The Missourians allowed 20 points in ten games, La Crosse gave up nine points in six contests.

Call Meetings to Iron Out Details Of Y Cage Loops

Organization of two Y. M. C. A. basketball leagues is expected to be completed at meetings this evening.

Church league officials will meet at 7 o'clock at the "Y" to draw a schedule, consider applications for membership in the circuit and distribute tickets. Five teams already have entered the loop and there are openings for two more quints. Those entered are Congregational, St. Mary, St. Joseph, St. Theresa and Mt. Olive. Play is to get underway this Saturday night at the "Y" gymnasium.

Managers of Older Boys league teams will meet at 8:15 this evening to arrange a schedule. Ten teams have applied for berths. Competition is to begin Saturday.

Lash Scores Second AAU Win in 4 Days
Plainfield, Ind.—Don Lash of Bloomington, fleet-footed Indiana state policeman and former Indiana university distance star, won the first annual Mid-States Amateur Athletic union cross country meet Sunday for his second AAU victory in four days.

Lash, who took the national AAU cross country championship Thursday in Detroit, today sped over a 4-mile course at Indiana boys' school in 19 minutes, 33.1 seconds to beat 24 opponents for the senior mid-states title as some 2,000 onlookers watched.

Second to Lash was Greg Rice of the South Bend Athletic club, former Notre Dame runner, Rice was also second at Detroit. Third was Earl Mitchell, of Butler, and fourth Tommy Deckard, of Bloomington, once a teammate of Lash at Indiana.

Walter Mehl, of Madison, Wis., forced out of the national event by cramps, withdrew.

Few persons know it, but the day after he lost his first game with the Washington Redskins four years ago, Coach Ray Flaherty was given a ten-year contract by Owner George Preston Marshall. ... New York, for some reason still unexplained, is awfully keen for a Max Baer-Billy Conn fight. Personally, we thought the Conn-Savory fight in the Garden the other night smelted to high heaven—not that there was any business done, the fight just smelted.

First complete check-up (still unofficial) shows Davey O'Brien was responsible for at least five National Football league records when he pitched 60 passes and completed 33 for 316 yards against Washington Sunday. ... He set new individual and team marks for completions and yards gained in one game, and helped Don Looney set another record by catching 14 passes. ... Besides that, Davey seems sure with a new team and individual season records for completions.

Better Bowling

BY ANNE VARIPAPA
Famous Bowling Authority

8. Don't neglect spares: Every ball can't be a strike in bowling so it is advisable to discuss spares. If you have difficulty with some spares, the best advice I can give is that you go to an alley and bowl that particular spare until you have gained confidence and can make it consistently.

How do you make spares? Well, if it's the No. 10 pin or any pins on the right side of the alley, stand on the left side and roll toward the right. In other words, always roll from the opposite side from where the pins are still standing after you have delivered your first ball.

Picking off the No. 7 pin spare, as shown in above picture, is not as difficult as bagging the No. 10 because the delivery is more natural. The best way to roll for the No. 7 pin is to deliver the ball from the right side of the alley diagonally from right to left. This is an easy spare for the average bowler.

The most successful way to get the No. 10 pin is to roll from the left side. The delivery is practically the same as bowling for any spare except that you don't follow through quite as much as when you roll for spares on the left side of the alley.

The No. 10 pin causes many bowlers to talk to themselves because it remains upright on apparently perfect hits and is the most difficult single pin spare in bowling.

The DOG OWNER and HIS DOG

BY ALLAN KERR
Housebreaking is the stumbling block of many a prospective dog owner. If it weren't for this seemingly difficult problem in the rearing of a house pet, thousands more puppies would probably find good homes every year.

The thought of an "ordeal" proves a far greater drawback to canine ownership than the facts warrant, as many the person who has gone through the experience a number of times will attest. It is not nearly the monstrous undertaking that some folks, who likely got off to a bad start, would have you believe.

A plan of procedure should be adopted and diligently followed. Else confusion will follow, not only in the bewildered brain of the little pup, but in the whole household as well. The entire family should know what the plan is, and they should all govern themselves, and the pup, accordingly.

Better Methods
While the old "rub-his-nose-in-it" method has come down through many generations of dog owners and dogs, and has met with a fair degree of success, many plans just more genteel, have come in with the new world order. Of these we prefer to write.

There are only a very few exceptions to the fact that a dog is clean in the home, as far as his personal habits are concerned. He will not give much trouble if he is guided and handled properly right from the beginning. If he is a smaller breed, a paper or sand box in some set place in the basement or elsewhere may be provided. The larger dog will be allowed out of doors when the occasion demands.

But in the first place the dog must be taught to follow a regular routine. Well formed habits of cleanliness will then be easily acquired. He should be allowed to "go" the first thing in the morning and the last thing at night, as well as after every meal. If he can be caught in the act of a misdeed in the house, scolded and put out, or taken to his regular place, he'll get the idea in a hurry.

The fact that a dog dislikes to soil his bed provides one of the best methods of teaching clean habits. Tie the pup on a short leash all the time he is in the house, allowing him to "go" at regular and frequent intervals. If he is one of the tiny kind, put him in a box or crate. It won't take long for him to get the idea. But it is crucial to neglect your part of the bargain. You must let him out regularly, day and night.

Doings of Don and Jean
Having just an old dog-house to sleep in, and a big yard in which to prance about, these three month old springers "go" when they doggone please. However, we've been taking them into the basement for their four square per day, and have had a little chance to encourage personal cleanliness. They seem to be doing right well, too.

The only two offenses were pretty much our own fault. The first time in, they were not given the little walk around the yard to sort of encourage the doing of their "chores," immediately after being let out of the pen. The second time, we failed to notice Don at the basement door practically pleading to be let out. We bewailed him out anyway, just on general principles. There has been no trouble since, which doesn't mean that careful vigilance should stop.

Newcomers Appear In List of Sectional Grid Scoring Leaders
New York—Two newcomers broke into the list of sectional scoring leaders in college football last week as the season closed for most of the top-ranking men, but they had no chance to overcome the head start they had given to Jackie Hunt of Marshall college and Tom Harmon of Michigan.

Although their campaigns closed the previous week, Hunt scored a total of 182 points, all resulting from 27 touchdowns which established a new intercollegiate mark while Harmon made 117.

Charles Larson of Culver-Stockton college in Missouri continued to hold third place among the sectional leaders although his 87 point total was surpassed by several unsuccessful candidates for Hunt's eastern crown.

The newcomers to the list in the final week were Ben Collins of West Texas State, whose 80 points put him ahead of Thurmon Jones of Abilene Christian in the Texas conference, and Bob Brumley of Rice, who scored all his team's 21 points against Baylor and thus took

Kimberly Shades Neenah, Trucks Win, Bakers Lose

Capacity Crowd Sees Papermakers Nose Out Ramblers, 35 to 33

Kimberly—A thrilling basketball game between Kimberly-Clark Neenah Ramblers and Kimberly AA's Sunday afternoon was won by the Papermakers, 35 to 33, in a packed clubhouse. Kimberly took a lead of 15 to 7 at the quarter and was out in front, 22 to 19, at the half. The Ramblers led, 28 to 27, as the third canto ended, but Gossens and company went ahead on Van Dyke's rebound to go on to win. Van Dyke and Hamann were high scorers for the Papermakers with Burton and Whittlinger going good for Neenah.

Hamann tipped in a rebound and Burton countered for Neenah with a side court ringer. Van Dyke scored two points with Hamann scoring another rebound and a gift when pushed by Schmidt. Jansen of the visitors connected from side court, only to have Vander Velden take Bowman's short pass to score. Van Dyke added two gifts and Hofkins added a bucket, on a pretty pass from Hamann. Burton collared a rebound and Whittlinger a gift for Neenah, only to have Bowman dribble down court to score. The quarter ended with Kimberly in the lead by a 15 to 7 score. Hamann's work in this quarter of feeding the ball and tipping in rebounds had the visitors baffled.

Neenah Closes Gap
The second quarter saw Neenah close the gap. Burton sank two buckets from the free throw marker as did Whittlinger. The visitors were not able to get in close and looped shots from a distance. Kimberly scored seven points to the visitors twelve but the Papermakers still led at the half, 22 to 19.

The third period was a thriller with the lead switching around. Whittlinger scored on a long shot. Bowman found the range with Hamann feeding him. Burton's one hand push shot found the mark and he followed this with two points from in under. Hamann and Vander Velden made good on gifts as did Whittlinger. The game was getting rough with fouls being called on both teams. Van Dyke made good on a charity when Lloyd was called for pushing. Whittlinger made a long try good to give the visitors a 28 to 27 lead at the finish of the third quarter.

The last period saw the Papermakers step up the pace. Van Dyke tipped in a rebound. Whittlinger, uncanny on long shots, sank another and a moment later hit the net with a rebound. Van Dyke was fouled by Whittlinger, adding one, while Hamann coming in fast, scored on a short pass from Van Dyke. Bueasing and Van Dyke fouled each other with both converting. Van Dyke in a melee under the Papermaker basket tipped in the winning two points. Whittlinger and Lloyd went out on fouls with a minute and nine seconds remaining.

With one minute and two seconds remaining, Hofkins fouled Jansen. Neenah took the ball out, but the Papermaker defense was too tight to crack and the villagers went home happy. Neenah Reserves won over the Kimberly Reserves, 38 to 31.

Same Errors Are Always Being Made

BY ELY CULBERTSON

No two ways about it, the old traps are the best traps! What people "fell for" in 1937, they also fall for in 1940. I have in mind Question 25 of the recent self-rating examination.

North-South vulnerable, the bidding has proceeded:

West North East South
4 hearts Pass Pass ?
You are South, and hold:
AKQ107 ♥ None ♦ AKJ53
AQJ9

What call do you make?

The answer was that South should bid four no trump, "a standard, although not well known, convention demanding that partner name his best suit." This question, with only the slightest changes also was posed in the 1937 exam, to-wit:

East, your right hand opponent, dealt and bid four spades. You are South and hold:

AKQ105 ♦ AKJ6 ♥ KQJ4
What call do you make?

The answer, then, was four no trump, also.

In both exams, the bridge public chose every conceivable bid, including a double, apparently without considering the advantages of this conventionally forcing four no trump overall. These advantages are many. In no other way is South assured of reaching an offensive contract in which his team is virtually guaranteed a holding of eight trumps. It is extremely unlikely that North, for his forced response, will have no four card length except in the opponents' suit. Thus, by overcalling with four no trump, South kills two birds with one bid: (1) he guards against the nonvulnerable opponents playing the hand (doubled), and possibly raking in eight or nine tricks, and (2) he definitely discovers the best trump suit at which his side can buy the contract.

The bidding:

South West North East
1 diamond 1 heart 1 no trump Pass
2 clubs 2 hearts 3 diamonds Pass
4 clubs Pass 4 hearts Pass
5 clubs Pass 5 diamonds Pass

North-South passed up a laydown slam on this ideal and, the moment the play was over, a "blame fixing" argument broke out.

It seems to me that there can be no real doubt as to the guilty party being South. North made a free no trump bid over West's one heart; he gave a free diamond raise over the two hearts; and, most significant, he made a four heart cue bid over South's four clubs. His five diamond bid was only a "preference," but, in my opinion, the values he announced in his three previous bids should have appeared sufficient for South, in view of his own strength, to bid the slam.

South argued that none of North's bids indicated the all-important king of clubs, to solidify South's suit, and that other values, in spades, for example, would not have been so usable. This was a very superficial bit of reasoning. If North lacked the club king, he certainly would have to hold the spade ace to justify his bids, and in that case a doubleton club or the club jack would give South an equally good play for the slam. South simply failed to visualize the top cards and distribution North must have to back up his strong bidding.

My Neighbor Says—

Baking meringue in too hot an oven will make it shrink and get watery. Meringue should be baked at about 325 degrees (moderate oven) for 20 minutes. If the meringue is piled as high as possible, then a slower fire (300 degrees or less) and longer cooking time, perhaps a half hour, are in order.

A delicious, crunchy sandwich filling is made by mixing equal parts of chopped dates and celery, add half as much cream cheese and chopped candied orange peel. Season with a dash of salt, paprika and a little salad dressing.

Candied cranberries are just as effective as candied cherries for garnishing winter foods.

Beauty and You

By Patricia Lindsay

MODERN DIET—Billie Burke does not hesitate to tell women that her beauty, health and success depend greatly on well-balanced menus. She is modern about her diet.

Too many women wait until they become dangerously ill before they will reform their body-starving eating habits. Then, in desperation, they seek knowledge of health-building diets in the hope they may regain their energy and beauty through correct, well-balanced menus.

In many instances they have procrastinated too long. Their nutrition-starved bodies are unable to respond to any treatment, and they face their remaining years with little hope of enjoying sound health. And when health leaves one's life, woman's greatest heritage also departs—her vital beauty.

You and I know many women who boast they get along on almost no food, or a very limited amount. Others like to brag about eating "anything I want at any time and it doesn't seem to hurt me." And still others we meet, take delight in keeping their figures slim through fast dieting.

What all these women do not realize is that a day will come when the piper must be paid! Just when they have a little leisure to enjoy life (after their families have been raised and their husbands comfortably settled in business) they will develop minor ailments, which, statistics show, are followed by major illnesses. American women in their late forties, fifties and sixties have an alarming percentage of part-invalids in their group. And at least fifty per cent of this number could have prevented this state of impaired health if they had only eaten correctly during previous years.

Primary Rules of Proper Eating
Progressive physicians, and nutritionists, have made great discoveries about food forces during the past twenty-five years. Some of their discoveries appear to be contradictory when you study diet intensely as I have done. But from this mass of material which has been presented in medical papers and surveys the layman may glean essential rules of eating which build good health and tend to prevent disease.

Your body needs a BALANCED diet even though you may have a bird-like appetite. It needs dairy products, some meat and fowl, fresh fruits and vegetables in good proportions, honey, nuts, whole grains in breads and cereals, some sea food, natural fats or oils which come in such foods as butter, olive oil, soy beans, avocado pears, cream and nuts.

What your body does, not need, and is infinitely better without, are elaborate dishes, rich starchy sauces, fried foods, sugar-laden desserts, more than two cups of coffee per day, liquor, candy, creamed foods.

The preparation of your food should be simple. Steam cook your vegetables so you do not pour off all the nourishment; broil or bake your meats, fish and fowl; eat well-washed fruits and vegetables uncooked either separately or combined in salads, drink fruit juices fresh if you can get fresh fruit, otherwise drink canned juices; learn the value of fresh vegetable juices. Vary your menus by eating some of all the fresh fruits and vegetables available and do not neglect the dairy products.

Along with correct menus you should get sunshine, fresh air and rest. Never eat when you are exhausted and every once in a while let one day be a liquid day. The good health you will reap is worth any sacrifice you think you are making in holding to such a schedule.

Miss Lindsay has prepared a reducing schedule which contains well-balanced menus and corrective exercises. The booklet slimming to beauty may be had for ten cents in coin. Address: Patricia Lindsay, care of this paper, P. O. Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

INTRODUCING CLERGYMAN
Not only do I want to say "THANK YOU" to the clergyman who has called my attention to a mistake that appeared recently in this column, but since the mistake has proved to be a typographical oversight that occurred in my own office, of course I want to reprint the whole question and answer with correction noted, because it will not do at all to have the error stand.

The mother of a young physician asked whether, when introducing her son's friends who are also professional men, she should say "Dr." for the one who is a dentist, and "Dr." for another who is an M. D., and if she should call the third who is a minister, "Rev." She also wrote, "These friends will always be my son's 'little friends' to me, and I don't suppose I have to call them anything except what I always have."

In answer to this, I wrote: Naturally you call them what you always have. When you introduce them, you introduce the dentist and the physician as "Dr." and the minister as "The Rev. Mr. Blank." (Don't leave the "Mr." out between "The Rev." and his last name.) If the minister is a D. D. it is "not" polite to call him "The Rev. Dr. Blank." But you must never use the word "Rev." immediately before a surname.

The insertion of "not" before "polite" was a really serious error. The right answer is "Reverend Doctor Blank." If you want to be most polite, "The Reverend Doctor Blank" is correct.

Refreshments at a Tea-Dance
Dear Mrs. Post: What should the refreshments at a tea-dance include? And when are these served—all the afternoon or at some stated time?

Answer: A big table is stood either at one side of the ball-room, or in a room next to it, with plates of party sandwiches and cakes and a bowl of cold tea punch and glasses put out ahead of time and replenished whenever necessary during the afternoon. When many older people are invited too, the hot tea service is usually set at one end of the table and the cold tea punch at the other.

Young Widow Marries Again
Dear Mrs. Post: (a) I am a young widow marrying again after four years. Is it customary for a widow to be given away by someone, and in a case like my own where my father is performing the ceremony, who would do this? (b) Must either, or both, of the wedding marches be played?

Answer: (a) You may walk up the aisle entirely alone if you wish, or you may walk with your brother or other nearest relative. But I have known of several cases where the bride's father walked in with his daughter, took his place as the officiating clergyman and then performed the ceremony. At all the weddings about which I know personally, the father has given his daughter away by merely placing her hand in that of the bridegroom. (b) If you prefer other appropriate wedding music instead of the usual processional, the only possible objection to this is that the guests, not realizing that it is the processional, may not stand until they see the procession approaching.

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad, however, to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "A Dance Can Be Simple." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of this paper, P. O. # Encourage Child to Give Own Handwork for Gifts

BY ANGELO PATRI

Half the delight of Christmas for the children is in the gifts they hide away for their fathers and mothers, sisters and brothers, all the relatives they can possibly manage to provide for. The more the merrier.

Of course, the first thing they long to do is to go to the shops to buy the costliest gifts on the shelves but discovery of the practical difficulties in that direction soon discourages them. One must be ready with suggestions and with sound instruction about the nature of this giving. Get rid of the notion that the gifts must be expensive, professionally made and commercially handled to make them worth while. Children have to be taught that things as things do not matter, but that affection and service and thoughtfulness rank high always.

They Love Secrecy

Have a talk in secret with each child. Secrets are the essence of Christmas fun. Plan with them to buy and to make the gifts they decide on for each favored one. Encourage the child who sews to make some pretty or useful and pretty articles. Help the one who paints nicely to see that a picture, a box, a basket, painted as only he can paint it, will be just the thing for this one and that one. Show the children that what their people their mothers on Christmas morning are made according to the same pattern, but no two of the finished baskets, even though they are made of the same kind of paper and the very same kind of splints, will look alike. The teacher can pick out whose is whose without reading the names. It is that quality, the imprint of a mind on its creation, that makes a bit of handwork invaluable.

Encourage that kind of Christmas giving. It is better for the children. They will get more Christmas out of making their gifts than they ever could get by taking the money father gave them and buying things in the shops. Love is not sold over the counter—not the real thing, ever—and love is what makes Christmas giving thrilling.

The Personal Touch
There is something deeply personal in a bit of handwork. Something of the inner being who moves those hands gets into his work. The little baskets the children make to give

Mamma Is a Bully
This type of mother-in-law is a bully. In fact, some of the worst bullies imaginable are frail little women who put on a saccharine front and volubly express their great delight in finding that their Sonny Boys have married, but secretly do everything possible to break up such marriages.

They argue their sons out of having children, knowing very well that youngsters will help cement husbands and wife together.

My best advice to girls is not to marry such Sonny Boys in the first place. Better die a spinster than play second fiddle to a bullying mother-in-law.

A husband should forsake all others and cleave unto his wife. She should be the Number One woman in his life after the wedding day.

SANTA GIANT-KILLER

BY SIGRID ARNE

Chapter One
The Fisherman and The Mermaid

There was once a fisherman who lived in a warm and pretty country with his young, blond wife, who was called Inga. Their gray stone house stood on a hill and their garden ran down to the sea.

They would have been very happy but they had no children. And they wanted a son very badly.

But I shall tell you how they got a very fine son, indeed, and how after many adventures he became king.

It happened one Christmas Eve, Saul, the fisherman, stayed out in his boat long after sunset that day because he hoped to find a pearl to give Inga for her Christmas present. He cast his nets many times.

The last time they were extremely heavy. Saul tugged and struggled until the nets hung clear of the water at the side of his boat. And there he saw a strange sight.

In the nets lay a beautiful mermaid. Her long, green hair hung about her. And her slender tail flashed silvery-white as she lashed about trying to get free of the net.

"Please let me go," she cried to Saul.

Now there have been fishermen who have taken mermaids prisoner, and brought them to town. But mermaids soon die away from the sea. Saul had a kind heart and the mermaid was so pretty that he couldn't think of hurting her. So he quickly loosened his nets. They dropped back into the water and Saul could see the mermaid's tail flash in the waves as she leaped about glad to be free.

Saul sighed and said to himself, "No pearl tonight. I may as well go home to dinner."

The Wish
But then he heard the mermaid calling to him. He leaned over the rail and saw her swimming alongside the boat.

"Saul," she cried, "because you have set me free I can grant your dearest wish. I am King Neptune's oldest and favorite daughter."

"Oh, sweet mermaid," cried Saul anxiously, "could you send Inga and me a son?"

"Go back to your cottage and wait," she cried and disappeared. Saul went home to tell Inga the good news. And the mermaid swam like a streak to the great sea castle of coral where King Neptune lives.

Neptune listened to his daughter's story and smiled. And this is why he smiled:

For a hundred years he had had a visitor. A young prince from the kingdom where Saul and Inga lived. The prince's boat had gone down in a storm one night when Neptune was very angry. The mermaids had found him and brought him to Neptune's castle. He had lived there quietly ever since. He had grown no older but he had always longed to go back to the land.

"Now is the time to send our visitor home again," said Neptune. And then he saw his daughter looked unhappy. She said, "It is right. But I shall miss him more than anyone in our kingdom."

Neptune patted her hand. But he looked puzzled.

The Sea Gull
"We can give him gifts of the sea. But how can we aid him on the land? We must ask help, and since this is Christmas Eve, some one must go to Santa Claus."

"Let me," said the mermaid. "I will be there and back while no more than five waves roll up on the beach."

"Please go," said Neptune. "But hurry. It is nearing midnight."

So the mermaid rose to the top of the sea. There she changed into a great, gray sea gull that flew through the sky swifter than the winds. She was headed for Santa's toyland at the North Pole. But she was sad.

If Right Girl Is Chosen Marriage Will be Success

BY DOROTHY DIX

A young man who is about to take the dangerous journey to the altar asks me if I will give him a few tips about how to make his marriage a success. Well, son, if you want your marriage to be successful marry the right girl. Use as much intelligence and prudence in picking your wife—with whom you will have to live in all probability for 30 or 40 years—as you would in selecting an automobile that you will trade in for a new one in a couple of years. You wouldn't buy an automobile just because it was streamlined and a color that hit you in the eye and had some fancy gadget. You would want to know if it was a good, reliable make, what horsepower engine it had, if it could stand hard usage and was the type of car you needed. Give at least that much consideration to the woman you marry. Don't marry a girl just because she has a pretty painted face and a slim figure and a trick of looking up at you through her lashes. Find out what sort of stock she comes from. People are thoroughbreds or scrubs just the same as other animals. Notice whether she is healthy or sickly, for that will determine whether you will get a wife who will be a perpetual doctor's bill or pull her weight in the boat. Notice her disposition. If she bosses her family she will henpeck you. And, above all, make very sure that she has plenty of good, hard, horse sense. A fool wife is the greatest affliction any man ever wished on himself.

Don't marry a girl thinking you can change her after marriage. There is no magic in the marriage ceremony that converts a nitwit into a sensible woman; that turns a virago into an angel; that makes a lazy, shiftless one industrious, or a selfish one altruistic. As a girl is before marriage she will be after marriage. Only more so.

It's a 50-50 Game
After you are married, don't dump the whole responsibility of how your marriage turns out on your wife. Making a happy home is just as much your business as it is hers.

Besides, it is a two-handed job that takes teamwork. No woman can do it all alone. So give her co-operation. Take an interest in the house. Help her hang the curtains. Praise her cooking. Do your part about being a little ray of sunshine around the place. Many a woman is a poor housekeeper and a dismal companion because her husband never notices anything around the home except to criticize it.

Don't cut out the lovmaking. Marriage doesn't automatically extract a woman's sweet tooth. Before she was married there were plenty of boy friends to tell her how beautiful and wonderful she was and to bring her candy and flowers. You will have to pinch-hit for the bunch. Don't renege on the job.

Let her see that you are trying to make her happy, and that you don't think that just being married to you is such a picnic that she doesn't crave any other amusement. Take her window shopping and treat her to a hot dog if it is the best you can afford. It will break the monotony of cooking and washing and baby-tending and make her easier to live with.

Be Fair About Money
Be fair with her about money. If you have a good income, give her an allowance for the house and herself. It will save 30 breakfast table arguments and keep her from feeling she is being gyped. If you have a small salary, turn your pay envelope over to her. She can get twice as much out of a dollar as you can.

Deliberately start on your wedding day to cultivate companionship with your wife. Talk to her and listen to her when she talks. Discuss your business with her. Tell her about your hopes and plans. Make her read the same books that you do.

The reason that most husbands and wives bore each other is that one goes one way and the other goes another way until they get so far apart that they become strangers who do not interest each other.

Don't philander. Don't marry until you are ready to become a may technically forgive you. But you have killed her faith in you. You have taken the bloom off her love for you. You have taken away from her marriage all that made it fine and sacred, and that is a pretty high price to pay for a few flirtations.

Marriage is a problem that you have to work out day by day; but if you will try as hard to make a success of it as you do of your business, you will never fail.

The Road to Shani Lun
By Rita Mohler Hanson

YESTERDAY: On their way to the court of the Prince of Shani Lun, lovely Lynn Britton and her escort, Temu Darin, have arrived at the Mongolian monastery of Pallichao, from which a party issues to meet them. Frightened though she is by what amounts to her captivity, she still cannot hide her interest in Temu, a Mongolian with great experience in the Western world.

Chapter 15
TERRIBLE MESSAGE
"The trail forks at the foot of Pallichao," Temu said, "one branch going south to a mission on the Yellow river; the other continuing on west is our road to Shani Lun."

She looked at him with rising anger. "Our road! How sure you are of yourself?"

His eyes held hers. "I want you to be sure of yourself, too."

"I am sure you will pay for this."

"I'm not harming you," he said reasonably.

She threw up her hands in despair. "You're quarreling with me and spoiling the scenery." They both laughed. That, she felt, was the most maddening thing about her nature; her special weakness, a sense of the ridiculous that adulterated any particular power of rage she might possess.

Temu's mount had been restless all the time. Now, he sidled up to Lynn's camel and snarled and ground his teeth. Lynn eyed him doubtfully.

"He's a big, black, Blactrian brute!" She stumbled a bit over the words.

"Speak it swiftly," Temu commanded.

"He's a big, black, Blactrian brute!"

They both laughed again. "The poor fellow's showing symptoms of being in love," Temu explained. "Last month, he had a fight with a rival male and they almost killed each other; wound their necks together and twisted and wrenched and kicked and bit the flesh from each other's bodies."

"CANDLE-CLOCKS" So far as is known, the first clock in the world was a sun clock or shadow clock. It was a form of sundial.

The shadow clock was used in Egypt. Our record shows that a little post or peg cast a shadow on a strip marked to show six hours. In the afternoon, the strip was placed on the opposite side of the peg.

From Egypt came our custom of counting 12 hours for daylight and 12 hours for darkness. The fact is that daylight and darkness are not equal in length except on certain days of the year, but it is common to think of them as about the same.

Sundials of another type came later. They were made in such a way that time could be told all through the sunshine hours without moving any strip.

The sundial was a good invention, but it did not tell time at night. Even in daytime it was of no help when clouds or fog hid the sun.

One ancient way of marking time in the darkness was to let a rope burn away. The rope was knotted and was soaked in fat. When hung from a ceiling it would burn, or smolder, from knot to knot. The time taken to burn from one knot to another was a part of an hour.

Another method of telling time came after the candle was invented. The candle was made for the purpose of giving light, but it also served as a clock of a sort.

An ancient form of candle was made by soaking a reed in fat. This gave a fairly strong light, but there was much "flickering."

Later came the wax candle. In ancient Rome the people took wax from beehives and melted it. In the melted wax, a string was placed. The wax hardened around the string, and when lighted the string burned slowly toward the bottom.

An odd kind of clock was made by marking spaces on a candle. When the candle burned from one space to another, so much time passed. It might be that the time from space to space was only a few minutes, but thick candles burned more slowly.

We are told that King Alfred used a "candle clock" a thousand years ago. It was so thick that the flame took one-half hour to pass from one marking to another. (For General Interest section of your scrapbook.)

Home Building In Neenah Near Century Mark

Permits Granted for Construction of 97 New Houses This Year

Neenah — Despite the fact that construction in Neenah skidded downward last month, the building industry is only three homes away from the 100 mark for 1940, and there still is one more month in which to increase the all-time record which already has been established in home construction.

Permits for the erection of 87 new homes have been granted this year, and there is strong likelihood that at least three more will be issued during December. Dwelling construction this year is far ahead of last year's record when during the first 11 months 76 homes were built.

Construction of five new dwellings was started last month, while in November of last year, permits for 10 houses were issued.

Estimated construction valuation for which permits were issued decreased $38,566 last month in comparison to November of 1939. Last month's valuation totaled only $28,310 against $64,876 during the same months of 1939. Only 17 permits were issued last month, and fees for them amounted to $27.50.

Estimated costs of other jobs for which permits were granted totaled $12,927 and fees $84.10. They included 41 electrical, cost $3,040, fees $37.35; 12 heating, cost $3,734, fees $18.11; plumbing, cost $3,449, fees $15.75; 6 sewer, cost $261, fees $6. and 7 signs, cost $423, fees $7.

Health Council Opens Seal Sale

Neenah Group Uses Funds for Follow-Up In Tuberculin Testing

Neenah — The annual Christmas seal sale sponsored by the Neenah Health council, local representative of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association, opened Saturday. Over 1,000 letters containing Christmas seals and an appeal from the health council were placed in the mail by A. J. Armstrong, seal sale manager.

The council will continue to send seals during the next three weeks. The Neenah health council provided an intensive follow-up program for the tuberculin testing program held for students of high school age with the proceeds of the 1939 annual sale. Funds raised this year will be used in the same way.

The follow-up program included physical examinations, chest examinations at clinics, lunches for students whose parents were patients at the sanitarium, and milk lunches for underprivileged children in elementary schools. A number of adult contacts and arrested cases were included in the x-ray examination program.

The appeal by the health council said, "Once again the cheery little Christmas seal comes to bring its message of hope. Back in 1900, before the coming of the Christmas seal, tuberculosis was the leading cause of death in the United States. Today it ranks seventh in importance as a cause of death."

"In those days there were 250,000 deaths annually from tuberculosis. That has been reduced to 64,000 deaths a year. Thirty years ago tuberculosis was responsible for 11 out of every 100 deaths. Today it is responsible for 5 deaths in 100."

"A great gain, true—and yet today tuberculosis is the leading cause of death in the age group between 15 and 45 years and so we must all keep on fighting if we are to win the fight. The little Christmas seal gives us the funds with which to fight so please buy all you can."

County to Build Superhighway on Piecemeal Plan

Supervisors Vote Money for Start of Re-Location Project

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau Oshkosh — By a narrow 2-vote margin, the Winnebago county board this morning voted to launch construction of a proposed Superhighway 41 through Winnebago county on a "pay as you go" basis.

The vote on the plan was 23 to 21. Supervisors also approved a proposal that the county pay half of the cost of a new bridge across the Adams street slough in the city of Neenah, the money to be taken from the county trunk maintenance fund and not to exceed $7,500.

Included in the construction program on the superhighway for 1941 will be the purchase of the right of way and grading and draining the proposed route from Neenah to Brooks corner. The re-building of Jackson drive in Oshkosh from Algoma boulevard to New York avenue also will be undertaken as a part of next year's program.

The finance these projects the board authorized the use of its 1941 gasoline tax allotment which the state highway commission estimates to be $123,000, and $38,000 of the county's reserve from past allotments, to be used on the Neenah to Brooks corner project. The sum of $80,000, also held in reserve by the county, will be used on the Jackson drive project.

Federal Help D. F. Culbertson, area engineer of the state highway commission, told the board that the Neenah to Brooks corner project was eligible for at least $50,000 in federal aid next year, which he thought the county probably would obtain.

Supervisor E. G. Sonnenberg, Menasha, declared that the "pay as you go" plan would take 12 years to complete whereas under the proposed $800,000 bond issue, the highway would be finished by 1946. He added that the county could not be assured of its yearly allotment under the "pay as you go" plan where under the bond issue idea the state was required by law to pay the county its allotment each year.

The board also approved transferring $15,000 from the Highway 21 resurfacing project, already approved by the state, into a fund, to be used in building a storm sewer along Highway 150 from Superhighway 41 to the west city limits of Neenah and also for work on the proposed superhighway.

Dick's Letter

They were staying over a day in Pallichao, Lynn had been informed, to give the animals a day of good grazing before they entered the stony desert with its bitter water. The camp was set up at the foot of the hill below the Monastery.

Lynn, who was very tired, woke in the morning refreshed, remembering that Sherdock and Temu had promised to tell her why she was being compelled to go to Delun. They sat after breakfast in the dining tent, Sherdock in his priestly yellow robe, Temu and the Duchess in their Mcnol garb, and Lynn in a soft, knit dress of silvery blue with white at the throat and wrists, which made her look particularly feminine and exotic in these surroundings.

Chin Pak brought in the dispatch case and Temu took from it the envelope addressed in Dick Britton's handwriting. Handing it to her, he explained, "This is the final communication your brother sent to the Prince."

Lynn drew out the letter with trembling fingers.

My sister does not know the truth. I could not have persuaded her to leave America had I told her she had been asked not merely to visit the court at Delun, but to become its princess. She is the last girl in the world, I have since discovered, who would be agreeable to a marriage arranged after the French custom.

I took her to the temple village hoping that there I could break the news to her, but I found it impossible. If ever a girl requires courtship, Lynn is that girl. However, I have brought her here and turned her over to Sherdock according to agreement. So I consider that I have earned the marriage settlement.

The rest is up to you. She is at your mercy. Knowing you, I imagine you will take her and marry her, and knowing what a poor deal life is anyhow, I imagine she will not find you as dull as that American banker she might have married.

Tell her whatever you wish.

DICK BRITTON.

Lynn sat a moment stunned, unseeing, the paper falling from her fingers.

"To think that Dick would do this to me," she whispered, and added presently, "I suppose that somehow I made it easy for him."

He had practically sold her to this Oriental and deceived him in the buying; had let him believe that an American girl would willingly come to him as a bride, satisfied with a marriage arrangement made by a member of the family.

Presently her eyes focused on Sherdock, his face calm and serene as he fingered his beads. She turned and looked at Temu. He met her glance, his face watchful, expressionless, but she noticed that his knuckles were white as he gripped the arms of his chair.

Perhaps he had not been as confident as Sherdock and the Prince that these revelations should be made. They explained many things. "Now, what do you think?" he asked in a level tone.

"It's incredible, unbelievable!"

I took him and several sons of our

Prince in Europe and America?" "Yes," he agreed, frowning. "Didn't you both learn that no intelligent American girl would willingly accept such an arrangement?"

"The Prince took your brother's word. You must remember that he is very much in love with you, and with the least encouragement a man in love believes what he longs to believe."

"But you, the Prince's friend, you weren't in love?" "He shrugged and smiled faintly. "Mine not to reason why—"

She looked at the letter again. "Dick implies that the Prince might try to force me to marry him."

Temu spoke quickly. "The Prince wants you to come to Delun so he may talk this over with you."

"There is nothing to say," Story of A Prince

"He thinks there is. He's very much in love with you, convinced that you belong to him and he to you."

She turned to Sherdock. "Oh, Sherdock, you're a wise man and a good man! Can you be a willing party to this?"

The priest sat in silence, looking at her, breathing on her as it were, his peace and serenity.

"I love the Prince very much," he said. "Let me tell you about him. He needs you."

Lynn sat back in her chair as Sherdock continued: "My family has ruled Shani Lun since the breaking up of the empire of Kubla Khan. My brother, the Prince, had no male heir but it was revealed to me that our illustrious ancestor had incarnated and would be found as a child in a village of herdsmen north of Koko Nor. I would know him for he would come to me of his own free will and speak the words of our sacred mantra."

Lynn listened impatiently as he went on. "I headed the cavalcade that went in search of the little Prince. And among the black tents in the grasslands north of the lake we found a child six years of age, whose parents had been murdered by robbers. Somehow the boy had escaped the fate of his elders, and attaching himself to a band of herdsmen, had managed to survive."

"The natives presented their own terrified children who stood dumb before me as is natural with the wild children of the grasslands. They cuffed the orphan wait whenever he came near."

"But the child was alert and spirited and driven by an inner knowing. Character and power already displayed themselves in his features; he was a comely child despite the dirt and rags in which I found him. Presently he forced his way to me, placed his hands on my knees fearlessly, and looked me straight in the eyes, he repeated the sacred mantra again and again with insistence and without prompting: Aum mani padme hum."

Lynn listened rather breathlessly now, impressed by Sherdock's profound sincerity. She could picture the child, terrified and bewildered, his parents murdered while he was left to scavenge the camps of brutal Tibetan nomads or to die. ... But that was no life to join with hers.

The priest smiled a little, the light of love and tenderness bringing a glow to his face. "I took him to Delun. The Prince became his father and I his teacher. I believe he had a very happy childhood. When he grew older, I took him and several sons of our nobles to the Western world for further education."

Lynn glanced at Temu. "Bones of nobles?"

"There were ten of us," he said. "We had a splendid time but it was always good to get back to our own plains and mountains." He and the Duchess smiled at each other.

"After the death of my brother," Sherdock went on, "the young prince traveled no more to foreign lands. Then one day your picture came to Delun. The next day your brother came. We consulted the stars and the spirits of the sages. A marriage was arranged. It has long been predicted that the Goddess Tara would come from the West in her next manifestation." He bowed. ## Wheat Fails To Hold Gains

Fading Rally in Stock Market Serves To Unsettle Traders
Chicago — (P) — Wheat prices rose more than a cent early today. December contracts reaching 90 1/2 cents a bushel. Highest since May, but the market lost practically all of its gains before the close.
The comparatively high level of prices attracted profit-taking while a fading rally in the stock market also unsettled the pit. Most of the early buying apparently was associated with demand for December contracts in view of absence of deliveries and comparatively small commercial supplies. Deferred contracts, particularly July, 1941, delivered behind due to unfavorable crop prospects. July wheat closed at a discount of about 6 1/2 cents under December.
Receipts were wheat: 29 cars, corn 293, oats 45.
Wheat closed 1/2 lower to 1/4 higher compared with Saturday's finish. December 89 1/2; May 87 1/2; corn 1 1/2 down, December 62 1/2, May 61 1/2; oats 1/4 lower.

Britain Tightens Restrictions On Exports From South America

Buenos Aires — (P) — A survey of Argentine commercial and agricultural resources indicated today that Britain quietly is tightening her restrictions on ocean trade in an effort to keep vital supplies from reaching her axis foes through nations not in the war.
Well-informed sources said British economic experts were watching closely shipments of cotton, meats, fats and hides, and were checking on purchases in Argentina for Spain, Soviet Russia, Sweden, Finland and also conquered France.
These sources said the British already had killed a plan to sell 100,000 tons of Argentine cotton to Spain by declaring that navigators for such a shipment would not be available.
The navigators are certificates of British advance approval of cargo in ships heading through the British naval blockade.
British Turn Thumbs Down Negotiations were started recent-

Heavy Russian purchases of hides and fats also have attracted the attention of the British. So far there have been no actual restrictions placed in the form of refusing navigators to exporters concerned with such shipments to Russia have been given hints that "it would be unwise for the fellows to invest too much money in this business."
Swedish and Finnish buyers have been especially active in Argentine markets recently and the British were reported to be watching these transactions carefully.
Several Swiss firms, unable to import from Argentina, are continuing to make purchases of essential products, storing them in this country in the hope the war will end soon.

Deer Hunting Season Is Over; Few Have Luck

New London Parties Return After Treks Into Northern Areas

One successful party of four returned from around Little St. Germaine with four bucks among them. They are Fred LaMarche, Sr., Alex Volz, William Graichen and Charles Graichen, the latter of Greenville.

Only George Humblet downed his quarry among four others who included Ray Thomas, Gerald Dent and Andy Laib. They spent the week near Glidden.

Out on route 3, Henry Frederick and Howard James returned from Winegar with deer while their companions, Henry Heimbruch and C. Felcher, were not so fortunate.

Only one deer was brought back in a party of eight which included Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hanson of this city, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Dennison and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dennison and George Johnson of Bear Creek, and Holger Peterson of Tampico, Ill., who were at Minocqua. Johnson was the lucky marksman.

Stanley Christian, route 2, was among those who returned with an animal earlier in the week. He hunted between Eagle River and Saynor.
